Minister Lowell denies that he wants to resign.

When a man is missing now they first look in Mentor for him.

New Orleans will have a floating population during the Mardi Gras if the water doesn't subside.

The exports from New York last month were nine million dollars more than in January of last year.

The Minnesota cane growers have sent General Garfield a barrel of sorgum sugar. Is in meant for taffy?"

The trouble with Eads is he wont stay knocked down. He had hardly time to get a beef steak to put on the black eye given him by running against the House other day, before he was in the committee room, urging his ship railway scheme.

The annual report of the Society for the Suppression of Vice shows that 472 arrests have been made for selling obscene literature, 147 years of imprisonment inflicted, $55,650 in fines imposed, and large quantities of books, papers and pictures seized.

Chicago has 3,000 saloon keepers and 40,000 church-goers, and yet the church-goers say the saloonists have more influence than they have, and are praying for more law to help the majority in the contest. It's rather a sorrowful admission on the part of the church folk.

It will be a matter of strange satisfaction, perhaps, to those who made cash contributions for the relief of suffering Ireland, to know that the Land League have $350,000, which they propose to invest in United States bonds, the fund to be used sooner or later in keeping alive—not the starving—but the agitation.

The New York Democrats are trembling lest the split between Tammany and anti-Tammany will cause two Democratic candidates to be pushed forward to fill the vacancy caused by Fernando Wood's death, and that some Republican may slip in between them, and runaway with the cake, while they are fighting over it.

Oleomargarine makers and dealers will receive at least a warning at the hands of the present Congress. The committee having in hand an adulteration of food act, have agreed to incorporate a clause against selling grease for butter, but no permanent result will probably be reached until the new Congress takes up the matter.

There is no chance for the coercion bill to pass the House of Commons very soon. Already there are eighty amendments, each of which is to be debated and voted on before the main question is reached. It is a queer contest in which the Irish members seem to be trying to frame amendments a little faster than the House can dispose of them.

In Lawrence county, Alabama, where Pickens, the late Greenback candidate for Governor was shot down by roughs the other day, there have been six murders in two months, and yet when a coroner's jury dig the lead out of a corpse, they find that death came by blood-poisoning. There must be a good deal of bad blood to cause so many deaths.

General Hancock in his letter acknowledging the receipt of an invitation for himself and staff to be present at the inauguration, says—"should I conclude to be present I will notify you later." There was a time when he was very anxious to be there, but that time has passed, ed, and though the invitation is a courtesy due him, yet it must seem to him like an invitation to attend a funeral, in which he is requested to serve as the corpse.

President Hayes in a recent speech in Ashtabula, Ohio, invited his friends, if they came to Washington, to call and see him. One styling himself Commodore Watson, has taken him at his word, and has walked all the way to Washington, having been on the road since November. On arriving at the White House he announced his intention of staying with the President until after the inauguration, but they called him crazy and turned him over to the police. Next time the Commodore will insist on having a written invitation.

Those who spend their time guessing as to the make-up of the new cabinet, watch very little straws, in the hope of getting wind of something. One correspondent noticing that Senator Allison listened closely to Senator Bayard's speech on the funding bill, while others paid little attention, jumps to the conclusion that the Iowa Senator is so confident of taking the treasury folio that he must needs post up thoroughly on finances. It will get so soon that if a man takes a drink of water, it will be thought he is getting ready for the promised position of Secretary of the Navy.

Mayor Grace, of New York, proposes to prevent the swindling of confiding countrymen by planting policemen in front of mock auction stores, to warn those who enter. If the places could be nailed up, and the proprietors made to quit the business, it would be a saving, for there would then be no need of keeping policemen on duty, and running the risk of their being bribed to keep their tongues still. It seems strange to let a swindling shop keep open, to let the spider weave his web, and then pay men to stand there and shout "shoe fly." It would be quick work to break the web and kill the spider.

There is a brave little woman, named Mrs. Oliver, who is pastor of a Brooklyn church, which she is trying to make financially successful by sticking closely to the faith principle, and avoiding all sorts of church entertainments as means for raising funds. She believes that the good Lord, if he wants the church to live, will send the gold and the silver needful, by the voluntary giving of the people, rather than by selling fifty cent tickets to a ten cent show, or calling a plate of chalky water and a drowned oyster a fit supper to satisfy a healthy appetite. She really believes that a church can live without grab-bags and necktie socials. Her church is now only $13,000 in debt.

SENATE.

MADISON, Feb. 17.—In the Senate, this morning, a resolution was adopted requiring all special committees to report on or before the 25th.

The committee reported favorably on the measure before Congress relating to inter-state commerce.

The bill amending the St. Paul Railway Company's charter, was passed under a suspension of the rules.

ASSEMBLY.

In the Assembly the joint resolution of inquiry as to certain shortages in the accounts of the Madison insane hospital was concurred in.

Bills were passed providing pay for extra clerk hire.

Regulating the town insurance companies.

Requiring road overseers to pay over all funds to the town treasurer.

For the preservation of fish around Oshkosh.

Amending the law of commitment to the Boys' industrial school.

Changing the boundary line of Shawano county.

CONKLING AT MENTOR.

An Amicable Understanding Has Been Reached.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, February 16.—Senator Conkling arrived at Mentor this afternoon, coming from Buffalo, where he passed last night, on a fast Lake Shore train. General Garfield's private carriage was in waiting at the railroad station for the distinguished Senator. Arriving at the Garfield residence dinner was served, after which Senator Conkling and General Garfield passed the greater part of the remainder of the afternoon in consultation. Of course nothing is really known as to the cause of the visit, but rumor has it here, and that, too, on pretty good authority, that the journey has been made for the purpose of securing the treasuryship for the Hon. Levi P. Morton, if possible, and to have an understanding relative to the distribution of New York patronage. Senator Conkling leaves for the East on the fast Lake Shore train. Report says that all was very pleasant, and that an amicable understanding has been reached.

STANLEY MATTHEWS.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—It is learned from good authority that President Hayes will not withdraw the nomination of Mr. Matthews to be Justice of the Supreme Court. An intimate friend of Mr. Matthews went to the President and told him that the ex-Senator was very anxious not to embarrass him (the President) and that rather than do this, it was Mr. Matthews' desire the nomination be withdrawn. The president replied that the nomination had caused him no embarrassment whatever, and would not, be the result what it may. He thought the best policy was to let it alone and let it take its chances. The President thinks that if out of the committee it will be confirmed.

AN APPEAL.

PARIS, February 16.—At a dinner which he gave to Parnell to-night, Victor Hugo pledged himself to write an appeal to the world in favor of Ireland similar to that which he published in favor of Poland. It will probably appear next week.

A NEW ROAD.

The Lake Superior and Southeastern Railroad.

MADISON, Feb. 16—The Lake Superior and Southeastern is the name of a new railroad corporation to which a patent has been issued, whose purpose is to construct a railroad from Superior City, on the west end of Lake Superior, through Douglas, Bennett, Baum, and Chippewa counties, via. Chippewa Falls, to Eau Claire, thence either through the counties of Dunn and Buffalo to the mouth of the Chippewa river, or through the counties of Pepin and Trempealeau to the city of La Crosse, or possibly touching both points. A glance at the map will show that the proposed line of road is through an excellent portoin of the State, as yet undeveloped by railroads. The corporators are W. A. Bush, of the Eau Claire lumber company; Governor J. M. Bingham, Hon. J. A. Taylor, General G. C. Ginty, and L. C. Stanley, manager of the Chippewa Falls & Western railway company. All are well known residents of Chippewa Valley. When Chippewa and Eau Claire join in the enterprise it would seem to mean business and the names of the gentlemen composing the directory of the company are a sufficient guaranty that it has the capital, experience, and ability to accomplish its purpose. This company has a bill pending before the legislature asking that the portion of the grant of land by Congress to aid in the construction of railroads granted in 1874 to the Chicago Air Line Pacific railway company, and which that company have failed to earn, may be granted to it, and are prepared to assure the Legislature that full arrangements are made which will enable them to take immediate steps toward the early completion of the road.

RIVER AND HARBOR BILL.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The House of Representatives devoted the entire day and night to the consideration of the river and harbor bill, and made such progress that it will probably be disposed of this morning. The opposition to the measure was led by Mr. Updegraff, of Iowa, who criticised almost every item as it was read. Innumerable amendments were offered, but nearly all were rejected. Those which were agreed to were, in most cases, merely explanatory of the manner in which certain appropriations contained in the bill should be expended.

ANOTHER INJUNCTION.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15—A suit in equity was begun to-day in the United States circuit court, the main object of which is to prevent the carrying out of the agreement of consolidation between the great telegraph companies on the ground that the consolidation will result in the violation of specific contracts with, and business injury and loss to, the Direct United States Cable company. The action is brought by the last named company against the Western Union, Atlantic & Pacific, and American Union companies, and the Union Trust company of New York.

MEMORIALS.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—Senator Logan presented to-day a memorial of the Chicago Board of Trade in favor of the appropriation for the Milwaukee harbor of refuge.

Senator Angus Cameron presented a memorial of the Grand Lodge of Good Templars of the State of Wisconsin, in favor of the constitutional amendment prohibiting the sale or manufacture of liquor.

FIRES.

BOSTON, Feb. 16—Incendiary fires on Harrison avenue and a lumber wharf on Lehigh street, caused an aggregate loss of $36,000. Insured.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 16—G. E. Webster's cotton warehouse, occupied by Allen & Crawford, burned. Loss $70,000; insurance $30,000.

JUMPED THE TRACK.

EAU CLAIRE, Feb. 16—An engine with snow plow attached, jumped the track at Hudson to-day, going down an embankment of twenty feet, and instantly killing two men named McMahon and Waltby, and severely scalded several others, among whom was Wm. S. Kemp, assistant train master.

PIERCE'S PALACE HOTEL.

BUFFALO, Feb. 16—The elegant hotel known as Pierce's Palace Hotel was destroyed by fire to-day. Nothing was saved from the inside. The hotel and furniture cost nearly $500,000. The fire originated in the tower. The insurance will be large. The Convent of the Good Shepherd, the finest school in Buffalo, was also destroyed.

SENATOR CARPENTER.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Senator Carpenter has so far recovered that he was able to call at the White House to-day. President Hayes complimented him upon his improvement.

From Slavery to Independence.

Archie Hurd, a colored man well known in Connecticut, has just died there at the age of 80 years, leaving considerable property. He purchased the freedom of himself, wife and daughter from his mistress, a Mrs. Hurd of Georgia, for the sum of $1,675, money earned by his individual exertions, besides paying $200 yearly rent on his own person while accumulating the amount. Having bought and paid for himself and part of his family, he was seized as state property by the state of Georgia and forced to pay an addition of $400 to prevent his being again sold into slavery. He then, in May, 1853, came north and located in New Haven. Following Lincoln's emancipation proclamation, he went south, and brought his remaining children and grandchildren, 16 in all, to New Haven, an expense of over $600. The family thus reunited, became good, industrious citizens, and soon had comfortable homes. Old Archie drove one of the first package and baggage wagons ever seen in New Haven, and made his money in that way. He was a great favorite with the Yale students, and was as clean and honest as a new dollar.

The Peculiarities of Washington Clerks.

The male and female clerks in Washington are thus contrasted: It is common enough to see a male clerk sauntering through the corridors during office hours alone and unattended, but a female clerk never. They are always found in pairs. When a female clerk wants to leave her desk and go out into the corridors a similar desire is sure to seize another female clerk, and they go out together. There has never been a case recorded where a female clerk has left her work during office hours and appeared in the corridors alone. There are always two of them, generally with arms twined affectionately, and at the same time gracefully, about each other, slowly pacing the corridors. The fact is singular, and may be important. There may be a scientific, perhaps a psychological reason for this phenomenon. It can't be because of their social natures, for when they leave the department for their homes this dual condition of affairs no longer exists. They go along the streets alone, but in the corridors of the department they are found in pairs. This phenomenon is an interesting one, and should be investigated, and no doubt rich results would be obtained, and much light thrown on the vexed problem of female nature.

MILTON JUNCTION.

—Mr. Fred Hanover and wife, of Columbus, arrived in town last week, on a visit to Mrs. Hanover's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Bulles.

—Mr. E. W. Austin has been confined to the house for the last two months, and a large part of the time to his bed. His health has failed very much the last few months, which, however, is not to be wondered at, as he is passing his 87th winter.

—Mr. Henry Clarke and wife, of Berlin, Wisconsin, have been spending a week or two in town visiting their friends.

—Professor J. B. Estee came home on Thursday last a few hours before his mother's death, and returned to Normal, Ill., again Tuesday.

—Dr. Coakley got upset in another snow bank last Friday night at 2 o'clock. During the big storm his horse dragged him quite a distance through the snow, and smashed his cutter badly before he succeeded in getting a stay of proceedings. The Doctor is too light a weight to be out with such a spirited horse in the night. If he must go out nights he ought to take a driver whose weight would at least be some little check to a runaway horse through a snow drift. The doctor hangs on well but he is too light.

—Mr. H. R. Hinkley was much worse, last week, and Dr. Palmer, of Janesville, was up on Friday, as counsel in the case.

—Mrs. Estee, wife of Deacon Henry Estee, who lives one-half mile north on the Clear Lake road, died at her home, on Thursday evening last, after a long, lingering illness of over two years. She was buried on Saturday, in the cemetery in this place, the funeral being held at Milton. The funeral cortege found much difficulty in getting to and from that place in the midst of the pitless storm that raged all day.

—Two singing schools a week is now the order of the day. Prof. Burdick has a very large school, and is giving satisfaction.

—The beginning of the snow blockade here was on Friday night. The eastern bound train from Madison and the west, due here at 12:15 a. m., being obliged to stop here, and its train load of passengers was obliged to remain here till two o'clock next day, when the day train due at 1:20, doubled up with the night tram and started for Milwaukee. Trains on the Northwestern being suspended, many passengers going north and south had to content themselves with remaining over Saturday night and Sunday, among whom was Mr. Geo. W. Burchard, the Governor's private secretary, whose genial countenance did much to enliven and cheer the tedious waiting of the belated crowd, all of whom found ample and pleasant accommodations with Landlord Stetson during their forced tarry.

—The first tramp of the season came into the hands of the supervisors on Monday. He was found in a straw stack by Mr. A. S. Dunham, one morning last week somewhat frost-bitten, and was taken care of and duly handed over to the town authorities. He is partially deranged.

—Mrs. O. D. Vincent was quite sick on Monday and Tuesday with an attack of pleurisy.

—Dr. Allen had another runaway last week.

—Mr. S. C. Carr and C. Clark went to Chicago on Tuesday night with two car loads of stock.

How to Secure Health.

It seems strange that any one will suffer from the many derangements brought on by an impure condition of the blood, when SCOVILL'S SARSAPARILLA AND STILLINGIA, or BLOOD AND LIVER SYRUP, will restore perfect health to the physical organization. It is indeed a strengthening syrup, pleasant to take, and has proven itself to be the BEST BLOOD PURIFIER ever discovered, effectually curing Scrofula, Syphilitic disorders, Weakness of the Kidneys, Erysipelas, Malaria; all Nervous disorders and Debility, Bilious complaints and all Diseases indicating an Impure Condition of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, Stomach, Skin, etc. It corrects Indigestion. A single bottle will prove to you its merits as a health renewer, for it ACTS LIKE A CHARM, especially when the complaint is of an exhaustive nature, having a tendency to lessen the natural vigor of the brain and nervous system.

BAKER'S PAIN PANACEA cures Pain in Man and Beast. For use externally and internally.

DR. ROGER'S VEGETABLE WORM SYRUP instantly destroys worms and removes the Secretions which cause them.

Has been acquired by candid, honest dealing and years of successful practice.

My practice, not one of experiment, but founded on the laws of Nature, with years of experience and evidence to sustain it, does not tear down, make sick to make well; no harsh treatment, no trifling, no flattering. We know the cause and the remedy needed; no guess work, but knowledge gained by years of experience in the treatment of Chronic Diseases exclusively; no encouragement without a prospect. Candid in our opinions, reasonable in our charges, claim not to know everything, or cure everybody, but do lay claim to reason and common sense. We invite the sick, no matter what their ailment, to call and investigate before they abandon hope, make interrogations and decide for yourselves; it will cost nothing as consultation is free. STANLEY MATTHEWS.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—It is learned from good authority that President Hayes will not withdraw the nomination of Mr. Matthews to be Justice of the Supreme Court. An intimate friend of Mr. Matthews went to the President and told him that the ex-Senator was very anxious not to embarrass him (the President) and that rather than do this, it was Mr. Matthews' desire the nomination be withdrawn. The president replied that the nomination had caused him no embarrassment whatever, and would not, be the result what it may. He thought the best policy was to let it alone and let it take its chances. The President thinks that if out of the committee it will be confirmed.

AN APPEAL.

PARIS, February 16.—At a dinner which he gave to Parnell to-night, Victor Hugo pledged himself to write an appeal to the world in favor of Ireland similar to that which he published in favor of Poland. It will probably appear next week.

A NEW ROAD.

The Lake Superior and Southeastern Railroad.

MADISON, Feb. 16—The Lake Superior and Southeastern is the name of a new railroad corporation to which a patent has been issued, whose purpose is to construct a railroad from Superior City, on the west end of Lake Superior, through Douglas, Bennett, Baum, and Chippewa counties, via. Chippewa Falls, to Eau Claire, thence either through the counties of Dunn and Buffalo to the mouth of the Chippewa river, or through the counties of Pepin and Trempealeau to the city of La Crosse, or possibly touching both points. A glance at the map will show that the proposed line of road is through an excellent portoin of the State, as yet undeveloped by railroads. The corporators are W. A. Bush, of the Eau Claire lumber company; Governor J. M. Bingham, Hon. J. A. Taylor, General G. C. Ginty, and L. C. Stanley, manager of the Chippewa Falls & Western railway company. All are well known residents of Chippewa Valley. When Chippewa and Eau Claire join in the enterprise it would seem to mean business and the names of the gentlemen composing the directory of the company are a sufficient guaranty that it has the capital, experience, and ability to accomplish its purpose. This company has a bill pending before the legislature asking that the portion of the grant of land by Congress to aid in the construction of railroads granted in 1874 to the Chicago Air Line Pacific railway company, and which that company have failed to earn, may be granted to it, and are prepared to assure the Legislature that full arrangements are made which will enable them to take immediate steps toward the early completion of the road.

RIVER AND HARBOR BILL.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The House of Representatives devoted the entire day and night to the consideration of the river and harbor bill, and made such progress that it will probably be disposed of this morning. The opposition to the measure was led by Mr. Updegraff, of Iowa, who criticised almost every item as it was read. Innumerable amendments were offered, but nearly all were rejected. Those which were agreed to were, in most cases, merely explanatory of the manner in which certain appropriations contained in the bill should be expended.

ANOTHER INJUNCTION.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15—A suit in equity was begun to-day in the United States circuit court, the main object of which is to prevent the carrying out of the agreement of consolidation between the great telegraph companies on the ground that the consolidation will result in the violation of specific contracts with, and business injury and loss to, the Direct United States Cable company. The action is brought by the last named company against the Western Union, Atlantic & Pacific, and American Union companies, and the Union Trust company of New York.

MEMORIALS.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—Senator Logan presented to-day a memorial of the Chicago Board of Trade in favor of the appropriation for the Milwaukee harbor of refuge.

Senator Angus Cameron presented a memorial of the Grand Lodge of Good Templars of the State of Wisconsin, in favor of the constitutional amendment prohibiting the sale or manufacture of liquor.

FIRES.

BOSTON, Feb. 16—Incendiary fires on Harrison avenue and a lumber wharf on Lehigh street, caused an aggregate loss of $36,000. Insured.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 16—G. E. Webster's cotton warehouse, occupied by Allen & Crawford, burned. Loss $70,000; insurance $30,000.

JUMPED THE TRACK.

EAU CLAIRE, Feb. 16—An engine with snow plow attached, jumped the track at Hudson to-day, going down an embankment of twenty feet, and instantly killing two men named McMahon and Waltby, and severely scalded several others, among whom was Wm. S. Kemp, assistant train master.

PIERCE'S PALACE HOTEL.

BUFFALO, Feb. 16—The elegant hotel known as Pierce's Palace Hotel was destroyed by fire to-day. Nothing was saved from the inside. The hotel and furniture cost nearly $500,000. The fire originated in the tower. The insurance will be large. The Convent of the Good Shepherd, the finest school in Buffalo, was also destroyed.

SENATOR CARPENTER.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Senator Carpenter has so far recovered that he was able to call at the White House to-day. President Hayes complimented him upon his improvement.

From Slavery to Independence.

Archie Hurd, a colored man well known in Connecticut, has just died there at the age of 80 years, leaving considerable property. He purchased the freedom of himself, wife and daughter from his mistress, a Mrs. Hurd of Georgia, for the sum of $1,675, money earned by his individual exertions, besides paying $200 yearly rent on his own person while accumulating the amount. Having bought and paid for himself and part of his family, he was seized as state property by the state of Georgia and forced to pay an addition of $400 to prevent his being again sold into slavery. He then, in May, 1853, came north and located in New Haven. Following Lincoln's emancipation proclamation, he went south, and brought his remaining children and grandchildren, 16 in all, to New Haven, an expense of over $600. The family thus reunited, became good, industrious citizens, and soon had comfortable homes. Old Archie drove one of the first package and baggage wagons ever seen in New Haven, and made his money in that way. He was a great favorite with the Yale students, and was as clean and honest as a new dollar.

The Peculiarities of Washington Clerks.

The male and female clerks in Washington are thus contrasted: It is common enough to see a male clerk sauntering through the corridors during office hours alone and unattended, but a female clerk never. They are always found in pairs. When a female clerk wants to leave her desk and go out into the corridors a similar desire is sure to seize another female clerk, and they go out together. There has never been a case recorded where a female clerk has left her work during office hours and appeared in the corridors alone. There are always two of them, generally with arms twined affectionately, and at the same time gracefully, about each other, slowly pacing the corridors. The fact is singular, and may be import. There may be a scientific, perhaps a psycological reason for this phenomenon. It can't be because of their social natures, for when they leave the department for their homes this dual condition of affairs no longer exists. They go along the streets alone, but in the corridors of the department they are found in pairs. This phenomenon is an interesting one, and should be investigated, and no doubt rich results would be obtained, and much light thrown on the vexed problem of female nature.

MILTON JUNCTION.

—Mr. Fred Hanover and wife, of Columbus, arrived in town last week, on a visit to Mrs. Hanover's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Bulles.

—Mr. E. W. Austin has been confined to the house for the last two months, and a large part of the time to his bed. His health has failed very much the last few months, which, however, is not to be wondered at, as he is passing his 87th winter.

—Mr. Henry Clarke and wife, of Berlin, Wisconsin, have been spending a week or two in town visiting their friends.

—Professor J. B. Estee came home on Thursday last a few hours before his mother's death, and returned to Normal, Ill., again Tuesday.

—Dr. Coakley got upset in another snow bank last Friday night at 2 o'clock. During the big storm his horse dragged him quite a distance through the snow, and smashed his cutter badly before he succeeded in getting a stay of proceedings. The Doctor is too light a weight to be out with such a spirited horse in the night. If he must go out nights he ought to take a driver whose weight would at least be some little check to a runaway horse through a snow drift. The doctor hangs on well but he is too light.

—Mr. H. R. Hinkley was much worse, last week, and Dr. Palmer, of Janesville, was up on Friday, as counsel in the case.

—Mrs. Estee, wife of Deacon Henry Estee, who lives one-half mile north on the Clear Lake road, died at her home, on Thursday evening last, after a long, lingering illness of over two years. She was buried on Saturday, in the cemetery in this place, the funeral being held at Milton. The funeral cortege found much difficulty in getting to and from that place in the midst of the pitless storm that raged all day.

—Two singing schools a week is now the order of the day. Prof. Burdick has a very large school, and is giving satisfaction.

—The beginning of the snow blockade here was on Friday night. The eastern bound train from Madison and the west, due here at 12:15 a. m., being obliged to stop here, and its train load of passengers was obliged to remain here till two o'clock next day, when the day train due at 1:20, doubled up with the night tram and started for Milwaukee. Trains on the Northwestern being suspended, many passengers going north and south had to content themselves with remaining over Saturday night and Sunday, among whom was Mr. Geo. W. Burchard, the Governor's private secretary, whose genial countenance did much to enliven and cheer the tedious waiting of the belated crowd, all of whom found ample and pleasant accommodations with Landlord Stetson during their forced tarry.

—The first tramp of the season came into the hands of the supervisors on Monday. He was found in a straw stack by Mr. A. S. Dunham, one morning last week somewhat frost-bitten, and was taken care of and duly handed over to the town authorities. He is partially deranged.

—Mrs. O. D. Vincent was quite sick on Monday and Tuesday with an attack of pleurisy.

—Dr. Allen had another runaway last week.

—Mr. S. C. Carr and C. Clark went to Chicago on Tuesday night with two car loads of stock.

How to Secure Health.

It seems strange that any one will suffer from the many derangements brought on by an impure condition of the blood, when SCOVILL'S SARSAPARILLA AND STILLINGIA, or BLOOD AND LIVER SYRUP, will restore perfect health to the physical organization. It is indeed a strengthening syrup, pleasant to take, and has proven itself to be the BEST BLOOD PURIFIER ever discovered, effectually curing Scrofula, Syphilitic disorders, Weakness of the Kidneys, Erysipelas, Malaria; all Nervous disorders and Debility, Bilious complaints and all Diseases indicating an Impure Condition of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, Stomach, Skin, etc. It corrects Indigestion. A single bottle will prove to you its merits as a health renewer, for it ACTS LIKE A CHARM, especially when the complaint is of an exhaustive nature, having a tendency to lessen the natural vigor of the brain and nervous system.

BAKER'S PAIN PANACEA cures Pain in Man and Beast. For use externally and internally.

DR. ROGER'S VEGETABLE WORM SYRUP instantly destroys worms and removes the Secretions which cause them.

Hha been acquired by candid, honest dealing and years of successful practice.

My practice, not one of experiment, but founded on the laws of Nature, with years of experience and evidence to sustain it, does not tear down, make sick to make well; no harsh treatment, no trifling, no flattering. We know the cause and the remedy needed; no guess work, but knowledge gained by years of experience in the treatment of Chronic Diseases exclusively; no encouragement without a prospect. Candid in our opinions, reasonable in our charges, claim not to know everything or cure everybody, but do lay claim to reason and common sense. We invite the sick, no matter what their ailment, to call and investigate before they abandon hope, make interrogations and decide for yourselves; it will cost nothing as consultation is free. 1881.

We will open this week $20,000 of New Goods for the winter months of 1881. Our large sales for the past three months have reduced our stock so that we we are able to buy nearly a full assortment in all departments, of the newest and latest styles for the next 90 days. We have no old stock to close out, but buying at this time of year we can sell you new, fresh, stylish goods at 10 per cent. less than former prices; on all kinds of Domestics, such as Canton Flannels, Ginghams, Prints, Shirtings, Denims, Tickings, &c., 5 per cent. less than any house in the city, and will continue to do so as long as we are in business. Black and Colored Cashmeres we bought last April when those goods were lower than ever known before. Our Black Cashmeres that cost us 90c are now worth in the market 1.07 1.2, so houses buying from day to day have to pay the advance prices in the busy season. We make a specialty of Kid Gloves, never out of a No. or Button in the leading brands of Kid Gloves. We commence the year of 1881 with a complete assortment of all kinds of First Class Dry Goods.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY

Making the Ends Meet.

THE problem, How to make the ends meet, is one that a great many of our readers are continually trying to solve. Our farmers' wives rise early and sit up late filling every waking hour with the varied activities required by their circumstances, in order that they may help pay for the farm, or meet necessary family expenses, or lay up a little for a rainy day. Our mechanics' wives are busy from morning till night with household tasks, and many of them with extra work by which they add to the weekly earnings. A large number of the wives of professional men are full of care and labor, trying to make a little go a great ways, and on irregular and scanty collections to "keep up appearances" and secure comfort. Their lives are filled with uncertainties and they can depend on no regular income however small. Even the well-to-do, if they are to remain in that enviable condition, must do a great deal of housekeeping, and balance their accounts with exactness and regularity, or they will run behind. These various classes of women continually dream of the time when they will be less burdened with care and labor, and life will be easy to them. Some of them may realize their dream, but the great majority will always have to enonomize, will always have to work, will always have to carry a load of care. And the question continually recurs as to the points where economy shall be most rigidly exercised, where labor will be most profitable, where care may be most effectively lightened.

As to economy, those women, who in preference to employing a servant do their housework themselves with the assistance their children can give, save in waste and wages and board more than double what they would pay a servant, besides, as a rule, having their work done better, and having their girls and boys brought up to know how to perform domestic duties, and habituated to performing them. It is the superfluities of life that are costly. It has been shown again and again that upon a very small outlay per week or per year for edibles a comfortable subsistence may be maintained. Flour, sugar, vegetables are not expensive: it is the extras that cost so much. The Scotch, the Italians, the Chinese are examples of vigorous life on an inexpensive diet. As to clothing, standard goods, as domestics, calicoes, cloths, may be obtained at reasonable prices, but when we buy silks and fancy goods we must pay roundly for them. Those who must every day be confronted by the question, How to make the ends meet, should indulge very sparingly in superfluities. Plain furniture and upholstery are cheap and easily taken care of, while brocades and moquettes are costly and require great care to keep them nice. If those who can afford only plain food, who can indulge only in plain dress and plain furniture, would spend according to their means, they would have little trouble in making the ends meet. We are apt to fancy that a little display will deceive our neighbors and make them think us better off than we are, but we deceive ourselves wofully if we trust to such fancies. Every body knows just about how well off every body else in the neighborhood is, no matter what the superficial appearance may be. And those who are brave enough and honest enough to live according to their means and according to their ideas of right living, command universal respect.

As to hard work. Here it is the superfluities that cost. It is an easy task, comparatively, to prepare a simple meal, where the dishes are few and plain. It is easy to "clear away" after such a meal. But where one must have pie and cake and crullers and jellies and creams in addition to meats and vegetables, the labor before and after meals becomes formidable. Simplicity in living is the solution which will help many over-worked women. The hard-working man who can not make a satisfactory meal on meats, vegetables, bread and fruit, each perfectly prepared, ought to go hungry. The fact is, a great many housekeepers take little pains with these standard dishes, and trust to the excellence of their pies and desserts to make up their deficiencies in cooking the plain dishes. Then as to clothing. Since the era of the sewing-machine so much tucking and ruffling and puffing and knife-plaiting and stitching and braiding has become possible and fashionable that to many a woman the sewing-machine has been made a curse rather than a blessing. To those who can afford them these superfluities are all well enough, but to those who can not and yet indulge in them they are millstones about their necks. Plain clothes are easily made, are easily washed and ironed, and require little care to keep them in order.

"Living in style" is a very costly way of living. It costs in money, in labor, in care. People who have a hard time to make the ends meet and yet insist on living in style have a very laborious life. There is no slavery more wearing, no bondage more degrading, than that endured by those who are under the dominion of fashion, of the desire to keep up appearances and the fear of what people will say or think of them. Such people live as in a balloon, which may at any moment collapse or be carried no one knows where by sudden currents, unexpected and irresistible. The man, the woman, who lives within one's income, who lives as he or she can afford to live in respect to style, to fashion, to expenditure, is the happy man, the happy woman. They dare to make the ends meet by daring to dispense with whatever will keep the ends apart; and thus they escape debt, care, anxiety. They may not escape labor, and it is not desirable to escape labor, for that is "our portion under the sun," and when not exaggerated by artificial demands is wholesome and profitable to us. There are no unhappier, no more restless and unsatisfiable people breathing than those who are "depraved with ease." There is no happier class than the class that by daily labor earns daily bread, whether compelled to earn it or not.—N. Y. Tribune.

ALABAMA had last year a school population of 214,720 whites and 160,713 blacks; half of these attended school. The school fund for the year was $377,634.38. This sum supported 4,796 public schools more than four months, the average expenditure per capita being fifty-seven cents per month. Of the whole sum expended the colored schools got $156,218.

Hints to Women Travelers.

TRAVELING in these days is a very simple thing, and by no means attended with any formidable difficulties, if a woman possess ordinary intelligence, presence of mind and common sense.

Indeed, she may go very safely with the slenderest provision of these qualities if she will but look on herself in the light of a parcel, to be forwarded from point to point, and give herself no unnecessary worry with regard to what does not concern her on the way. I known a fragile little lady who went abroad last summer, crossing the ocean in the captain's care, and having not an acquaintance on the great steamer. She traveled from Liverpool to Hanover alone, and afterward went from place to place through the South of England, returning to her native land after some months, without having fallen among thieves, or encountered a single disagreeable experience. And it is a very usual thing for companies of ladies, numbering from two to a half-dozen, to go on their travels together, quite independent of escort by the stronger sex.

But you have your doubts, your little anxieties about your baggage. You do not know how you will get your baggage checked, what may happen if you are compelled to change cars in some unfamiliar locality, nor how to conduct yourself if obliged to seek shelter at a hotel by the way. Very possibly you are afraid of strangers, and do not know whether or not it will be proper for you to engage in conversation with fellow travelers whom you have never seen before, and may never see again. There are lions here and there, not the less terrible that you do not like to confess their existence. Then, too, the dress question disturbs you. There are many of you, my sisters, who would cheerfully forego the pleasantest excursion to mountain, lake, or sea-side, if you could not take it arrayed in the manner which seems to you becoming and fit.

How many of you this very month will go to the country, jaded, worn, exhausted and drained of vitality, through the determined efforts you have been making to prepare yourselves and children to shine in raiment various and beautiful, to have trunks overflowing with an elegant and abundant wardrobe! Was it Sidney Smith or another, perhaps a keen-sighted woman, who pithily said that the consciousness of being perfectly well dressed gave a lady a sense of composure which even the consolations of religion failed to impart? Satire, but it skirts the borders of truth. Your traveling dress, however, ought not to give you any perplexity. It should be thick rather than thin, quiet in tone, severely simple in fashion, and of fabric from which dust can be brushed, and which a shower will not ruin. A gossamer waterproof, and a comfortable wrap for the chill of night and early morning will complete a toilet, in which convenience and never show should be studied.

THAT ART OF PACKING.

Mother will help you pack your trunk better than I can tell you. But fold, not roll, your things. Such articles as bandoline and shoe-polish are risky, and should be carried with camphor and cologne in a hand-bag. The trunks being packed, and you having arranged of course to carry as little as possible in encumbering satchels and shawl-straps, if you are a dweller in a large city you may purchase your ticket at an express agency and receive your checks there, so that your goods need give you no more thought till you arrive at your destination. If this be impracticable, and you have no gentleman to see about it for you, all you have to do at the station or steamer is to buy your ticket, and with that in your hand seek the baggage-master, identify your trunk, which should be plainly marked with your name and home address, and receive from him a check, which you must put in a safe place, and not part with till your journey is completed. Keep your ticket where you can easily get at it, and do not oblige the conductor to stand losing precious moments while you nervously fuss and fidget, trying to find the piece of paper which demonstrates your right to be a passenger under his charge.

On a long journey, pleasant acquaintances are often made, for the time being, by the graceful rendering and acceptance of small services—the loan of a book or magazine, some information as to points of interest en route, or a little help tendered and taken at need. And sometimes these chance acquaintances ripen into life-long friendships. I have known two instances where this was so, and my readers may remember some. Do not wrap yourselves in a gloomy reserve, and behave as if apprehensive of intrusion. A well-bred woman can easily repel this. Thank the man who brings you a cup of tea, or assists you at the hasty railway dinner-table, and let a kindly atmosphere enfold you, and make your temporary shelter a home. The true lady is gracious, and self-assertive in no belligerent sense.

ABOUT MONEY.

Just what to do about money is a puzzle to some, who have not much experience, but do not like to ask questions. If you are in the company of an escort previously introduced by a common acquaintance, let him purchase your tickets and attend to your baggage, but offer him your purse to do so, and let him take from it the necessary sum. When you chance to meet a gentleman whom you know in an omnibus or street car, if he offers to pay your fare, or does so before you have an opportunity, always offer the amount to him. If he asks the favor of paying for you, let him do so, simply acknowledging the courtesy without making a fuss, unless there be some reason why you do not choose to be under the obligation, or resent his taking the liberty. Every lady will at least offer to pay her own expenses under such circumstances. Some, through embarrassment or diffidence, blunder about this rule, which of course does not at all apply to a lady going out by invitation with a friend, or under the escort of relatives. It is best to be on an independent footing about money any way, with ladies or gentlemen. If two ladies go out together, or meet at lunch in a restaurant, each of course pays her own way, unless she be there by the other's invitation.

Never carry all your money in your pocket-book. The larger part should be safely secured in an inner pocket or purse, not easily accessible to thieves. There are convenient bags of leather, to which straps going over the shoulders are attached, which are intended for this purpose, but our grandmother's old-fashioned plan of a pocket, high up in the petticoat, answers just as well. If possible, have with you on all journeys a little more money than you need, as a margin for emergencies.

If on a long river trip, unless you have a locked state-room, it is best to give your parcels and packages into the care of the maid, and thus leave yourself unincumbered, to move from place to place.

HOME PROTECTION.

No lady need be apprehensive of insult or intrusion from strangers, if she bear herself with instinctive delicacy and self-reliance. It is a rule, which has its occasional exceptions among the vilest only, that a lady receives an insult who invites none. Among the roughest and lowest orders of society, the modest woman is generally safe, armed by her own purity against evil assaults. Preoccupation of manner, attention to one's own errand, is protection in the worst neighborhood in cities. In traveling, one's associates are largely gentlemen and ladies, and, should the occasion arise, the matron or maiden who should require assistance or advice would find it generously proffered by hands and hearts loyal and kind as those of brothers, for womanhood is sacred and women are loved in our dear native land and the world over, wherever the name Jesus is worshiped.—Mrs. Margaret E. Sangster.

Uncle Aleck's Fast.

OLD WASH. was sitting on an empty box in front of a grocery store, opposite French Market, yesterday evening, listening to a conversation between several of the clerks regarding Dr. Tanner's starvation exhibition, when he suddenly interrupted the speakers with:

"Wal, dem white folk 's makin' a heap of fuss over a thing dat's been beat by my own brudder befo' de war, who eat nuffin' at all for sixty days, and libed a long time till after de s'render!"

As old Wash. bears an enviable reputation regarding his veracity, this statement startled his hearers not a little, but after regaining their equilibrium somewhat, one of them remarked:

"Now, Wash., you don't mean to tell us that your brother went sixty days without partaking of any food whatever?"

"I jes' mean ebery word I say and I'ze bin right dar, when Aleck done it! He done it on old Mars. Lipscomb's place right below de Bull's Head."

Did your brother drink any water during that period?" asked one of the crowd that had congregated in the meantime.

"Peeryut? He hain't had any water wid peeryut or widout it dat I knows of!" rejoined Wash. rather scornfully.

"Now Wash., we mean, if he drank any water during the sixty days he was fasting!"

"Oh! Wal, I dunno 'bout dat, but I nows he tuk a little wine mos' ebery day."

"But what induced your brother to undergo such a fearful trial?"

"Wal, yer see, he was gittin' sorter 'ligious spell on him, an' he thought he'd make up wid de Lord in dat manner."

"And you were right there with him during the sixty days and watched him all that time, and you are sure that your memory does not deceive you?" asked one of the grocery clerks.

"Yes, sah; I remembers eberything. I remembers yet how hungry Aleck used to git toward sundown, and I remembers that he got so used to eatin' after dark in dem sixty days, dat it tuk a couple of weeks to gittin' him to eat in daytime agin."

"To gittin' to eat in daytime agin!" echoed about a dozen voices, while the bewildered admirers and sympathizers of the starving doctor that were in the crowd gave a sigh of relief. "Didn't you say that your brother didn't eat any thing at all for sixty days?"

"Dat's jes' what I said," replied the old man, with a frown; "but I doan 'member sayin' anythin' 'bout de nights! You ain't gwine ter tell me dat your doctor ain't a eatin' nuffin' in dem forty days an' de forty nights in de bargain?"

The meeting broke up in disorder, whilst old Wash. thoughtfully picked up his stick and crossed the street to get another melon.—New Orleans Picayune.

Burnett's Cocoaine

Kills Dandruff, Allays Irritation, and Promotes the Growth of the Hair.

Gentlemen.—For over two years I have suffered terribly with "scald head" in its worst form. A few weeks ago I tried a bottle of your COCOAINE. The first application gave me relief, and now the disease is effectually cured.

Yours respectfully,
N. C. STEVENS, Deputy Sheriff, Ottawa, Ill.

Burnett's Flavoring Extracts are perfectly pure.

AND SPERMATORRHŒA.

A valuable Discovery and New Departure in Medical Science, an entirely New and positively effective Remedy for the speedy and permanent Cure of Seminal Emissions and Impotency by the only true way, viz: Direct Application to the principal Seat of the Disease, acting by Absorption, and exerting its specific influence on the Seminal Vesicles, Ejaculatory Ducts, Prostate Gland, and Urethra. The use of the Remedy is attended with no pain or inconvenience, and does not interfere with the ordinary pursuits of life; it is quickly dissolved and soon absorbed, producing an immediate soothing and restorative effect upon the sexual and nervous organizations wrecked from self-abuse and excesses, stopping the drain from the system, restoring the mind to health and sound memory, removing the Dimness of Sight, Nervous Debility, Confusion of Ideas, Aversion to Society, etc., etc., and the appearance of premature old age usually accompanying this trouble, and restoring perfect Sexual Vigor, where it has been dormant for years. This mode of treatment has stood the test in very severe cases, and is now a pronounced success. Drugs are too much prescribed in these troubles, and, as many can bear witness to, with but little if any permanent good. There is no Nonsense about this Preparation. Practical observation enables us to positively guarantee that it will give satisfaction. During the eight years that it has been in general use, we have thousands of testimonials as to its value, and it is now conceded by the Medical Profession to be the most rational means yet discovered of reaching and curing this very prevalent trouble, that is well known to be the cause of untold misery to so many, and upon whom quacks prey with their useless nostrums and big fees. The Remedy is put up in neat boxes, of three sizes, No. 1, (enough to last a month,) $3; No. 2, (sufficient to effect a permanent cure, unless in severe cases,) $5; No. 3, (lasting over three months, will stop emissions and restore vigor in the worst cases,) $7. Sent by mail, sealed, in plain wrappers. Full DIRECTIONS for using will accompany EACH BOX.

Send for Sealed Descriptive Pamphlets giving Anatomical Illustrations and Testimony, which will convince the most skeptical that they can be restored to perfect manhood, and fitted for the duties of life, same as if never affected. Sold ONLY by

THE Book for the Million

A new and complete GUIDE TO WEDLOCK, containing Chapters on A Competent Womanhood, Selection of wife, Evidences of Virginity, Temperaments, Sterility, Advice to Bridegroom, Husband & Wife, Prostitution, its causes, Celibacy & Matrimony compared, Conjugal Duties, Conception, Confinement, Love and Courtship, Impediments to Marriage, Science of Reproduction, Single Life considered, Law of Marriage and Divorce, Legal Rights of Married Women, Diseases of Women, their causes and cure, etc.

It is also a "Private Medical Adviser" on diseases resulting from impure sexual associations, and on self-abuse—the secret habit of youth—and its effect on after life, causing Nightly Emissions, Loss of Vigor, etc., and making marriage improper or unhappy, giving treatment and many valuable receipts. A book for private and considerate reading that no adult should be without, as ignorance on these subjects causes a great deal of misery. It contains much that is not in any other book, and has 260 pages, with over 100 Plate Engravings and Woodcuts. Sent sealed for [illegible].

W. M. ELDREDGE,
27 NORTH MAIN STREET, JANESVILLE, WIS.

KIDNEGEN is highly recommended and unsurpassed for WEAK or FOUL KIDNEYS, DROPSY BRIGHT'S DISEASE LOSS of ENERGY, NERVOUS DEBILITY, or any OBSTRUCTIONS arising from KIDNEY or BLADDER DISEASES. Also for Yellow Fever, Blood and Kidney Poisoning, in infected malarial sections.

By the distillation of a FOREST LEAF with JUNIPER BERRIES and BARLEY MALT we have discovered KIDNEGEN, which acts specifically on the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, removing injurious deposits formed in the bladder and preventing any straining, smarting sensation, heat or irritation in the membraneous lining of the ducts or water passages. It excites a healthy action in the Kidneys giving them strength, vigor, and restoring these organs to a healthy condition, showing the effects on both the color and easy flow of urine. It can be taken at all times, in all climates and under all circumstances without injury to the system. Unlike any other preparation for Kidney difficulties it has a very pleasant and agreeable taste and flavor. It has been difficult to make a preparation containing positive diuretics properties which will not nauseate, but be acceptable to the stomach. Before taking any Liver medicine try a bottle of KIDNEGEN to CLEANSE THE KIDNEYS from foul matter. Try it and you will always use it as a family medicine. Ladies especially will like it, and Gentlemen will find KIDNEGEN the best Kidney Tonic ever used.

NOTICE.—Each bottle bears the signature of LAWRENCE & MARTIN, also a Proprietary Stamp, which permits KIDNEGEN to be sold (without license) by druggists, grocers and other persons everywhere.

Put Up in Quart Size Bottles for General and Family Use.

If not found at your druggists or grocers, we will send a bottle prepaid to the nearest express office to you.

Making the Ends Meet.

THE problem, How to make the ends meet, is one that a great many of our readers are continually trying to solve. Our farmers' wives rise early and sit up late filling every waking hour with the varied activities required by their circumstances, in order that they may help pay for the farm, or meet necessary family expenses, or lay up a little for a rainy day. Our mechanics' wives are busy from morning till night with household tasks, and many of them with extra work by which they add to the weekly earnings. A large number of the wives of professional men are full of care and labor, trying to make a little go a great ways, and on irregular and scanty collections to "keep up appearances" and secure comfort. Their lives are filled with uncertainties and they can depend on no regular income however small. Even the well-to-do, if they are to remain in that enviable condition, must do a great deal of housekeeping, and balance their accounts with exactness and regularity, or they will run behind. These various classes of women continually dream of the time when they will be less burdened with care and labor, and life will be easy to them. Some of them may realize their dream, but the great majority will always have to enonomize, will always have to work, will always have to carry a load of care. And the question continually recurs as to the points where economy shall be most rigidly exercised, where labor will be most profitable, where care may be most effectively lightened.

As to economy, those women, who in preference to employing a servant do their housework themselves with the assistance their children can give, save in waste and wages and board more than double what they would pay a servant, besides, as a rule, having their work done better, and having their girls and boys brought up to know how to perform domestic duties, and habituated to performing them. It is the superfluities of life that are costly. It has been shown again and again that upon a very small outlay per week or per year for edibles a comfortable subsistence may be maintained. Flour, sugar, vegetables are not expensive: it is the extras that cost so much. The Scotch, the Italians, the Chinese are examples of vigorous life on an inexpensive diet. As to clothing, standard goods, as domestics, calicoes, cloths, may be obtained at reasonable prices, but when we buy silks and fancy goods we must pay roundly for them. Those who must every day be confronted by the question, How to make the ends meet, should indulge very sparingly in superfluities. Plain furniture and upholstery are cheap and easily taken care of, while brocades and moquettes are costly and require great care to keep them nice. If those who can afford only plain food, who can indulge only in plain dress and plain furniture, would spend according to their means, they would have little trouble in making the ends meet. We are apt to fancy that a little display will deceive our neighbors and make them think us better off than we are, but we deceive ourselves wofully if we trust to such fancies. Every body knows just about how well off every body else in the neighborhood is, no matter what the superficial appearance may be. And those who are brave enough and honest enough to live according to their means and according to their ideas of right living, command universal respect.

As to hard work. Here it is the superfluities that cost. It is an easy task, comparatively, to prepare a simple meal, where the dishes are few and plain. It is easy to "clear away" after such a meal. But where one must have pie and cake and crullers and jellies and creams in addition to meats and vegetables, the labor before and after meals becomes formidable. Simplicity in living is the solution which will help many over-worked women. The hard-working man who can not make a satisfactory meal on meats, vegetables, bread and fruit, each perfectly prepared, ought to go hungry. The fact is, a great many housekeepers take little pains with these standard dishes, and trust to the excellence of their pies and desserts to make up their deficiencies in cooking the plain dishes. Then as to clothing. Since the era of the sewing-machine so much tucking and ruffling and puffing and knife-plaiting and stitching and braiding has become possible and fashionable that to many a woman the sewing-machine has been made a curse rather than a blessing. To those who can afford them these superfluities are all well enough, but to those who can not and yet indulge in them they are millstones about their necks. Plain clothes are easily made, are easily washed and ironed, and require little care to keep them in order.

"Living in style" is a very costly way of living. It costs in money, in labor, in care. People who have a hard time to make the ends meet and yet insist on living in style have a very laborious life. There is no slavery more wearing, no bondage more degrading, than that endured by those who are under the dominion of fashion, of the desire to keep up appearances and the fear of what people will say or think of them. Such people live as in a balloon, which may at any moment collapse or be carried no one knows where by sudden currents, unexpected and irresistible. The man, the woman, who lives within one's income, who lives as he or she can afford to live in respect to style, to fashion, to expenditure, is the happy man, the happy woman. They dare to make the ends meet by daring to dispense with whatever will keep the ends apart; and thus they escape debt, care, anxiety. They may not escape labor, and it is not desirable to escape labor, for that is "our portion under the sun," and when not exaggerated by artificial demands is wholesome and profitable to us. There are no unhappier, no more restless and unsatisfiable people breathing than those who are "depraved with ease." There is no happier class than the class that by daily labor earns daily bread, whether compelled to earn it or not.—N. Y. Tribune.

ALABAMA had last year a school population of 214,720 whites and 160,713 blacks; half of these attended school. The school fund for the year was $377,634.38. This sum supported 4,796 public schools more than four months, the average expenditure per capita being fifty-seven cents per month. Of the whole sum expended the colored schools got $156,218.

To Prevent Wrinkles

A subscriber wants to know how to prevent wrinkles. The only sure remedy is "to commit suicide before you are thirty," unless every spring and fall you take Spring Blossom, which will keep your blood pure, and flesh clear until at least sixty. Prices: $1., 50c., and trial bottles 10c.

Hints to Women Travelers.

TRAVELING in these days is a very simple thing, and by no means attended with any formidable difficulties, if a woman possess ordinary intelligence, presence of mind and common sense.

Indeed, she may go very safely with the slenderest provision of these qualities if she will but look on herself in the light of a parcel, to be forwarded from point to point, and give herself no unnecessary worry with regard to what does not concern her on the way. I known a fragile little lady who went abroad last summer, crossing the ocean in the captain's care, and having not an acquaintance on the great steamer. She traveled from Liverpool to Hanover alone, and afterward went from place to place through the South of England, returning to her native land after some months, without having fallen among thieves, or encountered a single disagreeable experience. And it is a very usual thing for companies of ladies, numbering from two to a half-dozen, to go on their travels together, quite independent of escort by the stronger sex.

But you have your doubts, your little anxieties about your baggage. You do not know how you will get your baggage checked, what may happen if you are compelled to change cars in some unfamiliar locality, nor how to conduct yourself it obliged to seek shelter at a hotel by the way. Very possibly you are afraid of strangers, and do not know whether or not it will be proper for you to engage in conversation with fellow travelers whom you have never seen before, and may never see again. There are lions here and there, not the less terrible that you do not like to confess their existence. Then, too, the dress question disturbs you. There are many of you, my sisters, who would cheerfully forego the pleasantest excursion to mountain, lake, or sea-side, if you could not take it arrayed in the manner which seems to you becoming and fit.

How many of you this very month will go to the country, jaded, worn, exhausted and drained of vitality, through the determined efforts you have been making to prepare yourselves and children to shine in raiment various and beautiful, to have trunks overflowing with an elegant and abundant wardrobe! Was it Sidney Smith or another, perhaps a keen-sighted woman, who pithily said that the consciousness of being perfectly well dressed gave a lady a sense of composure which even the consolations of religion failed to impart? Satire, but it skirts the borders of truth. Your traveling dress, however, ought not to give you any perplexity. It should be thick rather than thin, quiet in tone, severely simple in fashion, and of fabric from which dust can be brushed, and which a shower will not ruin. A gossamer waterproof, and a comfortable wrap for the chill of night and early morning will complete a toilet, in which convenience and never show should be studied.

THAT ART OF PACKING.

Mother will help you pack your trunk better than I can tell you. But fold, not roll, your things. Such articles as bandoline and shoe-polish are risky, and should be carried with camphor and cologne in a hand-bag. The trunks being packed, and you having arranged of course to carry as little as possible in encumbering satchels and shawl-straps, if you are a dweller in a large city you may purchase your ticket at an express agency and receive your checks there, so that your goods need give you no more thought till you arrive at your destination. If this be impracticable, and you have no gentleman to see about it for you, all you have to do at the station or steamer is to buy your ticket, and with that in your hand seek the baggage-master, identify your trunk, which should be plainly marked with your name and home address, and receive from him a check, which you must put in a safe place, and not part with till your journey is completed. Keep your ticket where you can easily get at it, and do not oblige the conductor to stand losing precious moments while you nervously fuss and fidget, trying to find the piece of paper which demonstrates your right to be a passenger under his charge.

On a long journey, pleasant acquaintances are often made, for the time being, by the graceful rendering and acceptance of small services—the loan of a book or magazine, some information as to points of interest en route, or a little help tendered and taken at need. And sometimes these chance acquaintances ripen into life-long friendships. I have known two instances where this was so, and my readers may remember some. Do not wrap yourselves in a gloomy reserve, and behave as if apprehensive of intrusion. A well-bred woman can easily repel this. Thank the man who brings you a cup of tea, or assists you at the hasty railway dinner-table, and let a kindly atmosphere enfold you, and make your temporary shelter a home. The true lady is gracious, and self-assertive in no belligerent sense.

ABOUT MONEY

Just what to do about money is a puzzle to some, who have not much experience, but do not like to ask questions. If you are in the company of an escort previously introduced by a common acquaintance, let him purchase your tickets and attend to your baggage, but offer him your purse to do so, and let him take from it the necessary sum. When you chance to meet a gentleman whom you know in an omnibus or street car, if he offers to pay your fare, or does so before you have an opportunity, always offer the amount to him. If he asks the favor of paying for you, let him do so, simply acknowledging the courtesy without making a fuss, unless there be some reason why you do not choose to be under the obligation, or resent his taking the liberty. Every lady will at least offer to pay her own expenses under such circumstances. Some, through embarrassment or diffidence, blunder about this rule, which of course does not at all apply to a lady going out by invitation with a friend, or under the escort of relatives. It is best to be on an independent footing about money any way, with ladies or gentlemen. If two ladies go out together, or meet at lunch in a restaurant, each of course pays her own way, unless she be there by the other's invitation.

Never carry all your money in your pocket-book. The larger part should be safely secured in an inner pocket or purse, not easily accessible to thieves. There are convenient bags of leather, to which straps going over the shoulders are attached, which are intended for this purpose, but our grandmother's old-fashioned plan of a pocket, high up in the petticoat, answers just as well. If possible, have with you on all journeys a little more money than you need, as a margin for emergencies.

If on a long river trip, unless you have a locked state-room, it is best to give your parcels and packages into the care of the maid, and thus leave yourself unincumbered, to move from place to place.

HOME PROTECTION.

No lady need be apprehensive of insult or intrusion from strangers, if she bear herself with instinctive delicacy and self-reliance. It is a rule, which has its occasional exceptions among the vilest only, that a lady receives an insult who invites none. Among the roughest and lowest orders of society, the modest woman is generally safe, armed by her own purity against evil assaults. Preoccupation of manner, attention to one's own errand, is protection in the worst neighborhood in cities. In traveling, one's associates are largely gentlemen and ladies, and, should the occasion arise, the matron or maiden who should require assistance or advice would find it generously proffered by hands and hearts loyal and kind as those of brothers, for womanhood is sacred and women are loved in our dear native land and the world over, wherever the name Jesus is worshiped.—Mrs. Margaret E Sangster.

Uncle Aleck's Fast.

OLD WASH. was sitting on an empty box in front of a grocery store, opposite French Market, yesterday evening, listening to a conversation between several of the clerks regarding Dr. Tanner's starvation exhibition, when he suddenly interrupted the speakers with:

"Wal, dem white folk 's makin' a heap of fuss over a thing dat's been beat by my own brudder befo' de war, who eat nuffin' at all for sixty days, and libed a long time till after de s'render!"

As old Wash. bears an enviable reputation regarding his veracity, this statement startled his hearers not a little, but after regaining their equilibrium somewhat, one of them remarked:

"Now, Wash., you don't mean to tell us that your brother went sixty days without partaking of any food whatever?"

"I jes' mean ebery word I say and I'ze bin right dar, when Aleck done it! He done it on old Mars. Lipscomb's place right below de Bull's Head."

Did your brother drink any water during that period?" asked one of the crowd that had congregated in the meantime.

"Peeryut? He hain't had any water wid peeryut or widout it dat I knows of!" rejoined Wash. rather scornfully.

"Now Wash., we mean, if he drank any water during the sixty days he was fasting!"

"Oh! Wal, I dunno 'bout dat, but I nows he tuk a little wine mos' ebery day."

"But what induced your brother to undergo such a fearful trial?"

"Wal, yer see, he was gittin' sorter 'ligious spell on him, an' he thought he'd make up wid de Lord in dat manner."

"And you were right there with him during the sixty days and watched him all that time, and you are sure that your memory does not deceive you?" asked one of the grocery clerks.

"Yes, sah; I remembers eberything. I remembers yet how hungry Aleck used to git toward sundown, and I remembers that he got so used to eatin' after dark in dem sixty days, dat it tuk a couple of weeks to gittin' him to eat in daytime agin."

"To gittin' to eat in daytime agin!" echoed about a dozen voices, while the bewildered admirers and sympathizers of the starving doctor that were in the crowd gave a sigh of relief. "Didn't you say that your brother didn't eat any thing at all for sixty days?"

"Dat's jes' what I said," replied the old man, with a frown; "but I doan 'member sayin' anythin' 'bout de nights! You ain't gwine ter tell me dat your doctor ain't a eatin' nuffin' in dem forty days an' de forty nights in de bargain?"

The meeting broke up in disorder, whilst old Wash. thoughtfully picked up his stick and crossed the street to get another melon.—New Orleans Picayune.

FOR

NERVOUS DEBILITY AND SPERMATORRHŒA.

A valuable Discovery and New Departure in Medical Science, an entirely New and positively effective Remedy for the speedy and permanent Cure of Seminal Emissions and Impotency by the only true way, viz: Direct Application to the principal Seat of the Disease, acting by Absorption, and exerting its specific influence on the Seminal Vesicles, Ejaculatory Ducts, Prostate Gland, and Urethra. The use of the Remedy is attended with no pain or inconvenience, and does not interfere with the ordinary pursuits of life; it is quickly dissolved and soon absorbed, producing an immediate soothing and restorative effect upon the sexual and nervous organizations wrecked from self-abuse and excesses, stopping the drain from the system, restoring the mind to health and sound memory, removing the Dimness of Sight, Nervous Debility, Confusion of Ideas, Aversion to Society, etc., etc., and the appearance of premature old age usually accompanying this trouble, and restoring perfect Sexual Vigor, where it has been dormant for years. This mode of treatment has stood the test in very severe cases, and is now a pronounced success. Drugs are too much prescribed in these troubles, and, as many can bear witness to, with but little if any permanent good. There is no Nonsense about this Preparation. Practical observation enables us to positively guarantee that it will give satisfaction. During the eight years that it has been in general use, we have thousands of testimonials as to its value, and it is now conceded by the Medical Profession to be the most rational means yet discovered of reaching and curing this very prevalent trouble, that is well known to be the cause of untold misery to so many, and upon whom quacks prey with their useless nostrums and big fees. The Remedy is put up in neat boxes, of three sizes. No. 1, (enough to last a month,) $3; No. 2, (sufficient to effect a permanent cure, unless in severe cases,) $5; No. 3, (lasting over three months, will stop emissions and restore vigor in the worst cases,) $7. Sent by mail, sealed, in plain wrappers. Full DIRECTIONS for using will accompany EACH BOX.

Send for Sealed Descriptive Pamphlets giving Anatomical Illustrations and Testimony, which will convince the most skeptical that they can be restored to perfect manhood, and fitted for the duties of life, same as if never affected. Sold ONLY by

FOREST LEAF & JUNIPER

KIDNEGEN,

THE GREAT KIDNEY REGULATOR AND DIURETIC.

TRADE MARK

☞ KIDNEGEN is highly recommended and unsurpassed for WEAK or FOUL KIDNEYS, DROPSY BRIGHT's DISEASE LOSS of ENERGY, NERVOUS DEBILITY, or any OBSTRUCTIONS arising from KIDNEY or BLADDER DISEASES. Also for Yellow Fever, Blood and Kidney Poisoning, in infected malarial sections.

☞By the distillation of a FOREST LEAF with JUNIPER BERRIES and BARLEY MALT we have discovered KIDNEGEN, which acts specifically on the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, removing injurious deposits formed in the bladder and preventing any straining, smarting sensation, heat or irritation in the membranous lining of the ducts or water passages. It excites a healthy action in the Kidneys giving them strength, vigor, and restoring these organs to a healthy condition, showing the effects on both the color and easy flow of urine. It can be taken at all times, in all climates and under all circumstances without injury to the system. Unlike any other preparation for Kidney difficulties it has a very pleasant and agreeable taste and flavor. It has been difficult to make a preparation containing positive diuretics properties which will not nauseate, but be acceptable to the stomach. Before taking any Liver medicine try a bottle of KIDNEGEN to CLEANSE THE KIDNEYS from foul matter. Try it and you will always use it as a family medicine. Ladies especially will like it, and Gentlemen will find KIDNEGEN the best Kidney Tonic ever used.

NOTIFE.—Each bottle bears the signature of LAWRENCE & MARTIN, also a Proprietary Stamp, which permits KIDNEGEN to ae sold (without license) by druggists, grocers and other persons everywhere.

Put Up in Quart Size Bottles for General and Family Use.

If not found at your druggists or grocers, we will send a bottle prepaid to the nearest express office to you.

THE GRAIN EXPORTS.

Statistics of the Grain Exports of the United States for 1880.

THE grain export of the United States for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1880, was, according to a report just made by the Bureau of Statistics, 281,000,000 bushels valued at $277,000,000. Wheat made up 178,079,000 bushels of this export, 29,000,000 being exported as flour and the rest as grain. This is not only the largest export of wheat ever made from this country, 32,000,000 bushels larger than the year before, but it is three and a half times the export of Russia, the greatest wheat growing country in the world, next after the United States. The average price at which this wheat was exported was $1.24 per bushel against $1.08 per bushel the year before. The corn exported, 99,191,000 bushels in the last fiscal year against 85,575,965 bushels for the year ending in 1879, was exported at an average of 54 cents a bushel instead of 47 cents in the previous year. Nearly one-half of the $77,000,000 which the country received for its export of breadstuffs in the fiscal year 1880 over and above its receipts from breadstuffs in the year before was due to this increase in price. The export in bushels was larger by a fifth; the sum received for it was a full third larger than the year before.

The wheat of the United States sent abroad in the last fiscal year was the surplus of a total crop of 449,000,000 bushels. The export of 40 per cent. of the home crop was due to a deficiency in every country in Europe and a diminished export from Russia. The home crop and the foreign demand this year are still in doubt. The yield on the Pacific Coast is known to be larger than usual, the great belt of winter wheat which stretches across the Mississippi Valley from Ohio to Nebraska is a full average crop, and the only point of uncertainty lies in the spring wheat of Wisconsin and Minnesota. These two States yielded last year 52,000,000 bushels, barely one-ninth of the entire wheat crop. Any reasonable loss in them is likely to be more than balanced by the normal growth in the crop of the country, which has doubled the wheat product of the United States in the last 10 years. There is no reason to suppose that this year's crop is smaller than last year's, there is a strong probability that it will show the usual growth, which will mean a crop of 480,000,000 bushels for 1880. At least 200,000,000 bushels of this will be for sale. It is sure to have a market, because it can be sold cheaper than the wheat of any other country can be offered. English wheat itself can not compete with American in Mark Lane, London. The price at which the surplus from this country will be sold is an open question. Last year's prices are not to be hoped for. Nor, probably, is the price of the year before. Two factors still unknown will determine the selling value—the export from Russia and the home supply in France and England.

The English wheat harvest and the Russian surplus taken together determine the demand and the price of American wheat in Europe. There are other factors in the problem, but these are the most important. The harvest in England will be decided during the coming fortnight. In spite of the recent bad weather, the general impression appears to be that the crop will be a good one. In Russia the harvest is poor. The average yield of grain is 220,000,000 to 240,000,000 bushels, of which 40,000,000 to 50,000,000 find their way to England and half as much more to other countries in prosperous years. In 1877, however, the total wheat export, including flour, was but 50,383,833 bushels, and the average from 1874 to 1877 was 49,000,000. The total grain export from Russia is from three to four times as large, reaching in 1877, for instance, 188,623,000 bushels. Returns which have just been published by the Golos, a Russian paper, from 48 provinces—there are in all 50—shows a decided deficiency amounting to fully an eighth of the total crop. The total grain production is placed at 310,000,000 bushels less than 1878, the last good year, the crop in 1879 being a failure. It is not stated how this deficiency is distributed among the cereals, but the statement is made that Russia will not be able to export the usual average of wheat. This will probably leave the situation in this respect much as it was last year, when the Russian export of wheat was less than two-thirds the average in previous years.—Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

Ben. Brust, Horseheads, Chemung Co., N. Y., writes: I have been a victim to Dyspepsia, in the worst shape it could attack an Englishman. I would sit down to enjoy a meal, of something I liked; after taking a few mouthsful, I would be overcome with a feeling of fullness of the stomach, and have to stop. I constantly had the Heartburn and Headache, also a Dizziness. My mother procured me a bottle of Spring Blossom; it cured me; I can eat a square meal and enjoy it; I never felt better in my life. Prices: $1., 50c., and 1 trial bottles 10c. Sold by A. J. Roberts, and Croft & Sherer.

A Chapter on Babies.

BABIES come from the bosom of God, and bring with them the attribute of omnipotence. Absurd and incongruous as may appear the application of the word omnipotent to the baby—as frail and delicate as the daisy or the violet—it is true, nevertheless, that wherever there is civilization there the helpless infant is the most powerful member of the social circle. Ever since the wise men of the East sought out and bowed in humble submission to the Christ-child, mankind have acknowledged the autocracy of the baby in swaddling-clothes. The first faint cry of distress of the new-born infant summons the entire household to the rescue. Every member of the family gives in his or her allegiance and becomes the bond-slave of the new master or mistress. The baby is regarded with as much wonder and admiration as if it were the first revelation of infanthood. All its wishes are commands; all its whims have the force of Royal orders in council. If there is a rustle of clothing in the cradle there is a rush and a patter of big and little feet to its vicinity in hot haste to anticipate the possible wants of its little occupant. If the baby sleeps there is silence in the house; if the baby wakes there is a great hubbub. The baby stares, and coos, and crows, and laughs when it has learned how to laugh, and the whole family stares, and coos, and crows, and laughs in discordant concert. And each member of the pleased circle disputes with all the others the privilege of holding, and kissing, and tickling the infant phenomenon; for every baby is a phenomenon. Every baby, in its own household, is the prettiest, cunningest, brightest, and in all respects the most remarkable infant that was ever born into the world. Hence the autocracy of the baby is logical; it rules by divine right of being the prettiest, cunningest, brightest, and in all respects the most remarkable baby in the land of the living. Nor is it strange that the power of the baby is supreme in its circle, when it is considered what grand achievements are possible to its future.

The baby is a boy. His face is a trifle too red, and gets redder and redder, perhaps, as he flings his arms wildly about in the vain endeavor to seize his toes with the view of inserting them between his toothless gums. He makes abortive passes at his ears, and at last probably succeeds in grasping and giving his own little pug-nose a violent wrench, whereat he screams with infantile rage and bursts into tears. During this interesting episode of pugnacity the subjects of the baby—the family—watch him with absorbing attention, and at the denouement, after soothing his lacerated feelings, they declare confidently that he is an infant Cæsar, or an Alexander. In a word, that he is destined to military renown—to save the Republic, or march over its ruins through seas of blood (the blood of other people). Or the boy-baby succeeds in capturing his pink toes, and instead of putting them in his mouth, fingers them one by one methodically, carefully, as if counting them, and the excited auditory declare that he is destined to excel in mathematics, that he will be an astronomer—another Newton—and advance from counting toes to counting stars. Doubtless when he gets away from his mother's apron-strings, and tumbles on a stone sidewalk, or gets knocked over by his big brother, he will see a new constellation of stars. The baby-boy has a habit of running his chubby fingers through the thin locks of hair which adorn but do not cover his half-bald pate, and looks the while wisely out of his big brown or little blue eyes, and his adoring subjects detect the genius of a philosophic mind, and discern in the drooling infant a new Plato, or a Bacon, or a Descartes. There are more warriors in the cradle than on horseback, and more mathematicians, philosophers, statesmen, poets, and painters in long clothes than are dreamed of in the waking or sleeping hours of old maids and old bachelors.

Girl-babies are sweeter than boy-babies. Their faces are not so red; their fingers and toes are of a more delicate pink hue; their feet are smaller; their hands are not so chubby; and their arms are more shapely. Their noses may be a trifle more "puggy," but their eyes are soft and gentle, and possess in persuasiveness what they lack in commanding force. They are more like violets and daisies than boy-babies are. There is infinitely more character in the dimpled face of the girl-baby than in the puffy countenance of the boy-baby. As soon as the eyes of the girl-baby open in wonder upon the world they seem to reflect faint glimpses of that intuitive perceptive faculty which distinguishes the female sex. The big boy-baby "doubles" his fist in a very suggestive but disagreeable way; the girl-baby lies in the cradle with an open palm. The boy-baby scowls; the girl-baby smiles seraphically as if already familiar with the art of fascination. The boy-baby flings his arms about frantically, and kicks off his socks; the movements of the girl-baby are graceful, and if she wails her cry is protesting rather than defiant like that of the boy-baby.

Here is a girl-baby resembling the lily: grace, purity, and high purpose are even now discernible in the round, dimpled face, and she is pronounced a second Saint Cecilia. Another is the counterpart of the tuberose bud; an expression of gentleness mingled with firmness shines in the soft blue eyes, and the little court surrounding the cradle point to the infant as a Laura waiting for her Petrarch. Another has the bearing of a Queen—of a Victoria, or of a Maria Theresa of Austria. Another beams forth rays of compassion from every feature, foreshadowing a career of mercy which shall rival that of Florence Nightingale in the British army hospitals of the Crimea. Another appeals for sympathy with the forecast of a life of devotion and suffering, calling to mind the fate of the Maid of Orleans. And so on through the catalogue of the world's heroines. Then, too, the cradles of the land are doubtless now occupied by infant Elizabeth Cady Stantons, Dr. Mary Walkers, Anna Dickinsons, Susan B. Anthonys, Belva A. Lockwoods, and Matilda Joslyn Gages. It may be difficult to realize that these estimable women were ever babies, and that they gouged their beautiful little soul-lit eyes with their thumbs without intending to, and sucked their fingers, and cried aloud for the nursing-bottle, and crept on all-fours, and howled when they tried to cut their eye-teeth, and drooled all over their little bibs, as the very best-behaved babies do. But they were the prettiest, cunningest, and brightest babies of the time. And their mammas hugged and kissed them, and their papas hugged and kissed them, and so did their sisters, their cousins, and their aunts. Anna Dickinson may dispute this latter proposition; but who cares if she does? It is not insinuated that Anna has been kissed since she arrived at the years of discretion. Nor is she to be censured for declining so long as she retains a vivid recollection of the horrors of babyhood kissing. To be hauled about as every baby is and subjected to an infinitude of kisses is the saddest and cruelest experience of infantile life. Babies ought to be protected from promiscuous and indiscriminate kissing by statute; and pretty girls, too, for that matter. But would pretty girls inform against their persecutors and avail themselves of the privilege of the law? But there are terrible presages in the realm of babyhood. There are babies tumbling and tossing restlessly in their cradles in whose eyes portents of evil are foreshadowed; babies whose innocent, expressionless features, rosy and dimpled, are destined to be distorted with unbridled passion; whose fists will be doubled with brutal intent; whose now nerveless hands will become iron and grasp the knife or the pistol with murderous purpose; whose hearts will be convulsed with ungovernable rage; and whose souls, O horror of horrors! will be stained with the blood of their fellow-creatures! And there are babies doomed to pinching poverty which degrades the body and dwarfs the soul; babies destined to be reared in the noxious atmosphere of vice and crime—all the healthy currents of their lives poisoned by a deadly moral malaria. What has been will again be. Not only are the philosophers, statesmen, poets, orators, and humanitarians of the future now sleeping unconsciously in the cradle, or crowing with infantile delight in the arms of fond mothers, but the great and little criminals, the murderers, and the thieves, the traitors and the robbers, the wretched little street waifs who will subsist by petty larceny and the colossal plunderers who will live off the fruits of giant conspiracies and fraud—all these vices of the future are concealed beneath the mask of baby faces.

The cradle is a veritable Pandora's box, whence emanate not only all the ills and mischief which afflict mankind, but all the joys and blessings which make life endurable. The chiefest joy is the spectacle of the mother bending over the sleeping or waking infant. Her face is irradiated with the glow of hope, that inestimable benefaction to mankind found at the bottom of Jove's casket of secret wonders presented to Pandora. Buoyed by this supreme stay of the soul—hope—the mother sees in the baby's face only visions of surpassing peace, unstained virtue, happy content, or world-wide renown.—Chicago Tribune.

THE New York Graphic takes up this line of discussion: "Man's apparel, as well as woman's, is open to improvement. His regular everyday attire is not a free, unfettered working dress. It is too stiff. There is too much starch and pasteboard for comfort or free play of limb. Any dress impeding the working of any part of the body is directly unhealthful. The proof that man's dress is to some extent a shackle is the fact and custom that if there's anything to do demanding muscular exercise, he must pull off not only his coat but his collar, cravat and sometimes shirt. Our pedestrians, our base ball players, our polo players, our yachtsmen on duty, all in order to do their best are obliged to strip themselves of portions of their conventional attire. If this be necessary for the fullest muscular exertion of a few hours, why is it not equally necessary for any hour? How much weakness and disease may be indirectly developed by clogs to physical exertion, by undue pressure and bandaging, by cramped feet and necks, by everything that fetters motion and respiration?"

REV., HENRY WARD BEECHER some time since received a letter from a young man, who recommended himself very highly as being honest, and closed with the request, "Get me an easy situation, that honesty may be rewarded." To which Mr. Beecher replied: "Don't be an editor, if you would be 'easy.' Do not try the law. Avoid school keeping. Keep out of the pulpit. Let alone all ships, stores, shops, and merchandise. Abhor politics. Keep away from lawyers. Don't practice medicine. Be not a farmer nor a mechanic; neither a soldier nor a sailor. Don't study. Don't think. Don't work. None of them are easy. O, my honest friend, you are in a very hard world! I know of but one real 'easy' place in it. That is the grave."

How's the Baby.

"HOW'S THE BABY?" "His croup is better this morning, thank you, we gave him some Thomas' Eclectric Oil as you advised, doctor, and shall give him some more in an hour or so." Next day the doctor pronounced the youngster cured. For sale by A. J. Roberts, and Croft & Sherer.

THE GRAIN EXPORTS.

Statistics of the Grain Exports of the United States for 1880.

THE grain export of the United States for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1880, was, according to a report just made by the Bureau of Statistics, 281,000,000 bushels valued at $277,000,000. Wheat made up 178,079,000 bushels of this export, 29,000,000 being exported as flour and the rest as grain. This is not only the largest export of wheat ever made from this country, 32,000,000 bushels larger than the year before, but it is three and a half times the export of Russia, the greatest wheat growing country in the world, next after the United States. The average price at which this wheat was exported was $1.24 per bushel against $1.08 per bushel the year before. The corn exported, 99,191,000 bushels in the last fiscal year against 85,575,965 bushels for the year ending in 1879, was exported at an average of 54 cents a bushel instead of 47 cents in the previous year. Nearly one-half of the $77,000,000 which the country received for its export of breadstuffs in the fiscal year 1880 over and above its receipts from breadstuffs in the year before was due to this increase in price. The export in bushels was larger by a fifth; the sum received for it was a full third larger than the year before.

The wheat of the United States sent abroad in the last fiscal year was the surplus of a total crop of 449,000,000 bushels. The export of 40 per cent. of the home crop was due to a deficiency in every country in Europe and a diminished export from Russia. The home crop and the foreign demand this year are still in doubt. The yield on the Pacific Coast is known to be larger than usual, the great belt of winter wheat which stretches across the Mississippi Valley from Ohio to Nebraska is a full average crop, and the only point of uncertainty lies in the spring wheat of Wisconsin and Minnesota. These two States yielded last year 52,000,000 bushels, barely one-ninth of the entire wheat crop. Any reasonable loss in them is likely to be more than balanced by the normal growth in the crop of the country, which has doubled the wheat product of the United States in the last 10 years. There is no reason to suppose that this year's crop is smaller than last year's, there is a strong probability that it will show the usual growth, which will mean a crop of 480,000,000 bushels for 1880. At least 200,000,000 bushels of this will be for sale. It is sure to have a market, because it can be sold cheaper than the wheat of any other country can be offered. English wheat itself can not compete with American in Mark Lane, London. The price at which the surplus from this country will be sold is an open question. Last year's prices are not to be hoped for. Nor, probably, is the price of the year before. Two factors still unknown will determine the selling value—the export from Russia and the nome supply in France and England.

The English wheat harvest and the Russian surplus taken together determine the demand and the price of American wheat in Europe. There are other factors in the problem, but these are the most important. The harvest in England will be decided during the coming fortnight. In spite of the recent bad weather, the general impression appears to be that the crop will be a good one. In Russia the harvest is poor. The average yield of grain is 220,000,000 to 240,000,000 bushels, of which 40,000,000 to 50,000,000 find their way to England and half as much more to other countries in prosperous years. In 1877, however, the total wheat export, including flour, was but 50,383,833 bushels, and the average from 1874 to 1877 was 49,000,000. The total grain export from Russia is from three to four times as large, reaching in 1877, for instance, 188,625,000 bushels. Returns which have just been published by the Golos, a Russian paper, from 48 provinces—there are in all 50—shows a decided deficiency amounting to fully an eighth of the total crop. The total grain production is placed at 310,000,000 bushels less than 1878, the last good year, the crop in 1879 being a failure. It is not stated how this deficiency is distributed among the cereals, but the statement is made that Russia will not be able to export the usual average of wheat. This will probably leave the situation in this respect much as it was last year, when the Russian export of wheat was less than two-thirds the average in previous years.—Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

Ben. Brust, Horseheads, Chemug Co., N. Y., writes: I have been a victim to Dyspepsia, in the worst shape it could attack an Englishman. I would sit down to enjoy a meal, of something I liked; after taking a few mouthsful, I would be overcome with a feeling of fullness of the stomach, and have to stop. I constantly had the Heartburn and Headache, also a Dizziness. My mother procured me a bottle of Spring Blossom; it cured me; I can eat a square meal and enjoy it; I never felt better in my life. Prices: $1., 50c., and 1 trial bottles 10c. Sold by A. J. Roberts, and Croft & Sherer.

A Chapter on Babies.

BABIES come from the bosom of God, and bring with them the attribute of omnipotence. Absurd and incongruous as may appear the application of the word omnipotent to the baby—as frail and delicate as the daisy or the violet—it is true, nevertheless, that wherever there is civilization there the helpless infant is the most powerful member of the social circle. Ever since the wise men of the East sought out and bowed in humble submission to the Christ-child, mankind have acknowledged the autocracy of the baby in swaddling-clothes. The first faint cry of distress of the new-born infant summons the entire household to the rescue. Every member of the family gives in his or her allegiance and becomes the bond-slave of the new master or mistress. The baby is regarded with as much wonder and admiration as if it were the first revelation of infanthood. All its wishes are commands; all its whims have the force of Royal orders in council. If there is a rustle of clothing in the cradle there is a rush and a patter of big and little feet to its vicinity in hot haste to anticipate the possible wants of its little occupant. If the baby sleeps there is silence in the house; if the baby wakes there is a great hubbub. The baby stares, and coos, and crows, and laughs when it has learned how to laugh, and the whole family stares, and coos, and crows, and laughs in discordant concert. And each member of the pleased circle disputes with all the others the privilege of holding, and kissing, and tickling the infant phenomenon; for every baby is a phenomenon. Every baby, in its own household, is the prettiest, cunningest, brightest, and in all respects the most remarkable infant that was ever born into the world. Hence the autocracy of the baby is logical; it rules by divine right of being the prettiest, cunningest, brightest, and in all respects the most remarkable baby in the land of the living. Nor is it strange that the power of the baby is supreme in its circle, when it is considered what grand achievements are possible to its future.

The baby is a boy. His face is a trifle too red, and gets redder and redder, perhaps, as he flings his arms wildly about in the vain endeavor to seize his toes with the view of inserting them between his toothless gums. He makes abortive passes at his ears, and at last probably succeeds in grasping and giving his own little pug-nose a violent wrench, whereat he screams with infantile rage and bursts into tears. During this interesting episode of pugnacity the subjects of the baby—the family—watch him with absorbing attention, and at the denouement, after soothing his lacerated feelings, they declare confidently that he is an infant Cæsar, or an Alexander. In a word, that he is destined to military renown—to save the Republic, or march over its ruins through seas of blood (the blood of other people). Or the boy-baby succeeds in capturing his pink toes, and instead of putting them in his mouth, fingers them one by one methodically carefully, as if counting them, and the excited auditory declare that he is destined to excel in mathematics, that he will be an astronomer—another Newton—and advance from counting toes to counting stars. Doubtless when he gets away from his mother's apron-strings, and tumbles on a stone sidewalk, or gets knocked over by his big brother, he will see a new constellation of stars. The baby-boy has a habit of running his chubby fingers through the thin locks of hair which adorn but do not cover his half-bald pate, and looks the while wisely out of his big brown or little blue eyes, and his adoring subjects detect the genius of a philosophic mind, and discern in the drooling infant a new Plato, or a Bacon, or a Descartes. There are more warriors in the cradle than on horseback, and more mathematicians, philosophers, statesmen, poets, and painters in long clothes than are dreamed of in the waking or sleeping hours of old maids and old bachelors.

Girl-babies are sweeter than boy-babies. Their faces are not so red; their fingers and toes are of a more delicate pink hue; their feet are smaller; their hands are not so chubby; and their arms are more shapely. Their noses may be a trifle more "puggy," but their eyes are soft and gentle, and possess in persuasiveness what they lack in commanding force. They are more like violets and daisies than boy-babies are. There is infinitely more character in the dimpled face of the girl-baby than in the puffy countenance of the boy-baby. As soon as the eyes of the girl-baby open in wonder upon the world they seem to reflect faint glimpses of that intuitive perceptive faculty which distinguishes the female sex. The big boy-baby "doubles" his fist in a very suggestive but disagreeable way; the girl-baby lies in the cradle with an open palm. The boy-baby scowls; the girl-baby smiles seraphically as if already familiar with the art of fascination. The boy-baby flings his arms about frantically, and kicks off his socks; the movements of the girl-baby are graceful, and if she wails her cry is protesting rather than defiant like that of the boy-baby.

Here is a girl-baby resembling the lily: grace, purity, and high purpose are even now discernible in the round, dimpled face, and she is pronounced a second Saint Cecilia. Another is the counterpart of the tuberose bud; an expression of gentleness mingled with firmness shines in the soft blue eyes, and the little court surrounding the cradle point to the infant as a Laura waiting for her Petrarch. Another has the bearing of a Queen—of a Victoria, or of a Maria Theresa of Austria. Another beams forth rays of compassion from every feature, foreshadowing a career of mercy which shall rival that of Florence Nightingale in the British army hospitals of the Crimea. Another appeals for sympathy with the forecast of a life of devotion and suffering, calling to mind the fate of the Maid of Orleans. And so on through the catalogue of the world's heroines. Then, too, the cradles of the land are doubtless now occupied by infant Elizabeth Cady Stantons, Dr. Mary Walkers, Anna Dickinsons, Susan B. Anthonys, Belva A. Lockwoods, and Matilda Joslyn Gages. It may be difficult to realize that these estimable women were ever babies, and that they gouged their beautiful little soul-lit eyes with their thumbs without intending to, and sucked their fingers, and cried aloud for the nursing-bottle, and crept on all-fours, and howled when they tried to cut their eye-teeth, and drooled all over their little bibs, as the very best-behaved babies do. But they were the prettiest, cunningest, and brightest babies of the time. And their mammas hugged and kissed them, and their papas hugged and kissed them, and so did their sisters, their cousins, and their aunts. Anna Dickinson may dispute this latter proposition; but who cares if she does? It is not insinuated that Anna has been kissed since she arrived at the years of discretion. Nor is she to be censured for declining so long as she retains a vivid reccollection of the horrors of babyhood kissing. To be hauled about as every baby is and subjected to an infinitude of kisses is the saddest and cruelest experience of infantile life. Babies ought to be protected from promiscuous and indiscriminate kissing by statute; and pretty girls, too, for that matter. But would pretty girls inform against their persecutors and avail themselves of the privilege of the law? But there are terrible presages in the realm of babyhood. There are babies tumbling and tossing restlessly in their cradles in whose eyes portents of evil are foreshadowed; babies whose innocent, expressionless features, rosy and dimpled, are destined to be distorted with unbridled passion; whose fists will be doubled with brutal intent; whose now nerveless hands will become iron and grasp the knife or the pistol with murderous purpose; whose hearts will be convulsed with ungovernable rage; and whose souls, O horror of horrors! will be stained with the blood of their fellow-creatures! And there are babies doomed to pinching poverty which degrades the body and dwarfs the soul; babies destined to be reared in the noxious atmosphere of vice and crime—all the healthy currents of their lives poisoned by a deadly moral malaria. What has been will again be. Not only are the philosophers, statesmen, poets, orators, and humanitarians of the future now sleeping unconsciously in the cradle, or crowing with infantile delight in the arms of fond mothers, but the great and little criminals, the murderers, and the thieves, the traitors and the robbers, the wretched little street waifs who will subsist by petty larceny and the colossal plunderers who will live off the fruits of giant conspiracies and fraud—all these vices of the future are concealed beneath the mask of baby faces.

The cradle is a veritable Pandora's box, whence emanate not only all the ills and mischief which afflict mankind, but all the joys and blessings which make life endurable. The chiefest joy is the spectacle of the mother bending over the sleeping or waking infant. Her face is irradiated with the glow of hope, that inestimable benefaction to mankind found at the bottom of Jove's casket of secret wonders presented to Pandora. Buoyed by this supreme stay of the soul—hope—the mother sees in the baby's face only visions of surpassing peace, unstained virtue, happy content, or world-wide renown.—Chicago Tribune.

THE New York Graphic takes up this line of discussion: "Man's apparel, as well as woman's, is open to improvement. His regular everyday attire is not a free, unfettered working dress. It is too stiff. There is too much starch and pasteboard for comfort or free play of limb. Any dress impeding the working of any part of the body is directly unhealthful. The proof that man's dress is to some extent a shackle is the fact and custom that if there's anything to do demanding muscular exercise, he must pull off not only his coat but his collar, cravat and sometimes shirt. Our pedestrians, our base ball players, our polo players, our yachtsmen on duty, all in order to do their best are obliged to strip themselves of portions of their conventional attire. If this be necessary for the fullest muscular exertion of a few hours, why is it not equally necessary for any hour? How much weakness and disease may be indirectly developed by clogs to physical exertion, by undue pressure and bandaging, by cramped feet and necks, by everything that fetters motion and respiration?"

REV., HENRY WARD BEECHER some time since received a letter from a young man, who recommended himself very highly as being honest, and closed with the request, "Get me an easy situation, that honesty may be rewarded." To which Mr. Beecher replied: "Don't be an editor, if you would be 'easy.' Do not try the law. Avoid school keeping. Keep out of the pulpit. Let alone all ships, stores, shops, and merchandise. Abhor politics. Keep away from lawyers. Don't practice medicine. Be not a farmer nor a mechanic; neither a soldier nor a sailor. Don't study. Don't think. Don't work. None of them are easy. O, my honest friend, you are in a very hard world! I know of but one real 'easy' place in it. That is the grave."

How's the Baby.

"HOW'S THE BABY?" "His croup is better this morning, thank you, we gave him some Thomas' Eclectric Oil as you advised, doctor, and shall give him some more in an hour or so." Next day the doctor pronounced the youngster cured. For sale by A. J. Roberts, and Croft & Sherer.

BRIEFLETS.

—Prayer night for church folk.

—J. M. Alden, of the Second ward, is reported as quite ill.

—Workmen commenced on Dr. Judd's new offices this morning.

—Fenner Kimball was able to walk out to-day, but is still feeble.

—Pictures begin to appear in the big photographic frame of the Guards.

—J. B. Ehle is making some internal improvements in his store. It is expected that John D., will soon open up a store of his own.

—John Buob was dangerously injured this afternoon by a cake of ice falling upon him, while he was at work in the cellar of his brewery.

—Next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, there will be a German service in the upper room of the First Methodist church. Rev. J. Berger, of Fort Atkinson, will preach.

—Four vagrants marched into the Police Court, this afternoon, under command of Marshal Hogan. They were given twenty days in jail, that is, five days each.

—Father McGinnity has returned from his trip to Denver and the west. He reports some big snow drifts, but on the whole had a happy trip, and returns in good health and vigor.

—The social held at the residence of Mr. Lowell, on High street, last evening, which is also the home of the pastor, Rev. Mr. Curtis, was an enjoyable affair, though not as largely attended as usual.

—S. Clark Burnham instituted a new Temple of Honor at Jefferson, Wednesday evening. There were twenty-two charter members, they being among the leading men of that place, and the prospects for a growing and successful organization are most excellent.

—Seth Cushman has secured a position in the office of Superintendent Capron, of the freight department of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road, and will go to Chicago next week to begin his duties. He is an excellent penman, and good short hand reporter, and with his steady habits and known ability will make himself useful to his employers.

—Fred Smith, son of M. C. Smith, who has a clothing house at Richland Center, has purchased at Sheriff's sale the Richland County Democrat, the paper owned and edited by Otis Brand. Fred intends to keep right on in the clothing business, in which he is meeting with big success, and will also manage the paper business, and in his hands there will be no sleepiness hanging around the sheet.

—Charlie Myers has decided to go into the wholesale coal business in Chicago, and has arranged to enter into partnership with a gentleman named Berry, from Pittsburgh. Mr. Berry has had fifteen years experience in the business, and, after the new enterprise has fairly been started will spend most of his time at the mines leaving his partner to take charge of the main office and yards in Chicago.

—Now Janesville has the promise of a rare treat indeed, it being no less than the appearance in this city of the wonderful tragedian, Thomas W Keene, who is now so thrilling great audiences in Chicago. Mr. Keene is to appear at the Opera house in this city on the evening of March 3d, in Richard III, and if the people of Janesville don't pack the house to its utmost capacity, it will be a sad comment on Janesville's appreciation of histrionic talent.

—Miss Pamela Meigs died at her residence on Franklin street, at 8 o'clock last evening. She was born at Linden Center, Vt., August 7th, 1821, and came to Janesville, in 1863. The deceased was a quiet and earnest christian woman and was greatly loved by all who knew her. The funeral services will be held at the First Methodist church, on Saturday, at 10 o'clock a. m. Revs. H. Sewell and G. W. Wells will conduct the services.

—Despite the statement that Vennor had postponed all further predictions on account of the weather, he comes to the front with an assertion that the rest of this month will be mild, and spring-like weather following, and high winds closing the month. All this would be highly comforting if we could only feel assured that in making this prediction he meant it to include Wisconsin, but we fear that after it is all over, he will smile sweetly and tell us he was speaking of Florida.

—The prevalence and fatality of Bright's disease of the kidneys has led Dr. Joseph F. Edwards to write a little book upon that subject, which is worded in a popular manner so that its readers will not be confined to the medical profession. It gives some plain, practical suggestions as to hygienic rules, which should be observed in order to check the progress of this disease, and by giving a history of the disease and its effects, makes a valuable little book, which ought to meet with a ready sale. It is published by Presley Blakiston, of Philadelphia, and is for sale at Sutherland & Son's in this city.

—Publishers of newspapers have for a long time felt the need of some plan for ascertaining the financial standing of advertisers, who send them orders from a distance, and the lack of such a plan has caused them often to give credit to those unworthy of it, and to refuse credit to those who were worthy. All of these annoyances can now be done away with by becoming a member of the Publishers' Commercial Union, of which Clarence W. Taylor, of this city, is the manager. The cost is trifling, and every member receives each week a report concerning advertisers, by which a publisher is protected from giving credit to bad paying advertisers, and is also informed as to who are first class patrons. The plan is an excellent one, and is being carried out very satisfactorily to every member, and every publisher should hasten to give it a hearty support.

—Janesville authorities will now feel that their demand for a dozen or fifteen complimentaries to each show, for the aldermen, is a very modest one. Oshkosh has been asking all the way from twenty to a hundred, and when they couldn't get so many, the money license was shoved up. But war has been declared. The local manager of amusements there played companies without getting any license or giving any complimentaries. He was fined $50 and has appealed, and now he says there shall be a dearth of amusements there until after the spring election, when a direct issue of "comps or no comps" will be laid before the people. In Fond du Lac only two dollars is asked for license, and no complimentaries are demanded.

—Louis Wilte, the man whom Officer Pratt arrested in Whitewater yesterday, appeared this afternoon in the Police Court, and pleaded guilty to stealing the locket and chain from Miss Wolfram's room at the American house. Justice Nolan fined him $20 and costs, and being unable to pay, he was committed to jail for thirty days. Mr. Ferguson, the second hand dealer, who bought some tools which were stolen from the carpenters' chests in Myers' new block, identifies Wilte, as the man of whom he bought them, and after serving his present sentence, he will probably have a chance to defend himself against another charge of larceny. Alex Curry, who is now under arrest for stealing these tools will have his examination next Monday afternoon.

—A movement is on foot to secure the appointment of Hon. Sanford A. Hudson, of this city, as territorial judge of the northern district of Dakota. A petition to that effect has been gladly signed by the members of the Bar here, and will be heartily endorsed by leading men of the State, and forwarded to Washington. It is to be hoped that the movement will be crowned with success, for as all know, Mr. Hudson fully merits such an honor, and would in all respects fill the position with credit to himself and to the satisfaction of all interested. It is needless to say, where Mr. Hudson is so well known as here, that he is a most conscientious and careful man, always faithful and accurate, and with a good brain, and a clean life, he is in all respects excellent material out of which to make a first class judge. There will be but one wish expressed here, and that is that the movement may result in placing him upon the bench.

A GOOD SHOWING.

Facts and Figures Concerning the Institution for the Education of the Blind.

The thirty-first annual report of the trustees of the Institution for the Education of the Blind for the year ending Sept. 30, 1881, is now being sent forth, in pamphlet form. It presents a very creditable showing for the management of that institution. As all know there has been a real motherly care taken of the pupils, excellent results reached by the educational work, and while there has been no stinting of money for accomplishing the real mission of the institution, and all its interests and its members have been well cared for, yet there has been a showing of economical management which is surely a fit example for other institutions to follow. There will be on the first of March a surplus of about $1,800, so that while the current expenses for another year are estimated at $17,800, the same amount as expended this year, there will be an appropriation needed of only $1,600. Out of a special appropriation this year of $1,200, there was expended $543.32 for completing a sidewalk to the city, and $856.68 for an ice house and refrigerator. A special appropriation of $400 was made for the purchase of a tract of land adjoining the present grounds, but the title not seeming satisfactory, the purchase was not made.

Among the items of interest gathered from the report are the following: 350 tons of coal used; 14,877 pounds of bread; 557 pounds of crackers; 3,605 pounds of butter; 17,150 pounds of fresh beef, and other articles of food in proportion.

In the estimates for next year it is recommended that a building be erected adjoining the engine house, for the storage of coal, etc., to cost about $800, and that the inside wood work of the Institution be repainted, the estimated cost being $400.

Each pupil is expected to spend at least one hour a day in some industrial occupation. Some of the younger ones are busied with bead work and some of the older girls with a variety of plain and fancy work, and in keeping in order and making their own clothing. The teaching of broom-making has been dropped, owing to the fact that hand labor cannot now compete with the factories in this line. The weaving of rag carpets is now given the leading place in the shop, and four looms are now kept busy filling orders. There are classes in cane seating also.

It is not generally known, perhaps, that the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, and the Chicago & Northwestern railway companies pass the pupils free over their road, to and from their homes, and the report contains a due acknowledgment of these favors.

The total number of names on the roll for the year is 89, of whom 48 are girls, and 41 boys.

AMUSEMENTS.

Next Saturday evening Minnie Palmer's Boarding School will be given at the Opera house. It promises to be an enjoyable entertainment in all respects, and to be especially abounding in mirth. The Boston Globe gives the following words of praise;

The piece enables Miss Palmer to present herself in a character—that of a spoiled child—in which she is a decided success. Her childishness, both in word and action, was very naturally assumed, and with that school-girl roguishness, which is very charming. In the part of Jessie Fairlove she played prank after prank upon the school master, creating such merriment during the time she was upon the stage that the audience was in a continual roar of laughter. She is the life of the piece, and the other characters served to bring her more prominently to the front. She is a bright vivacious actress of great ability, and in many of her ways resembles Lotta.

HERBERT'S CONSTELLATION.

Every evening next week Horace Herbert's comedy company will occupy the Opera house, opening Monday evening with "Rosedale, or the Rifle Ball," in Frank Cotton and J. W. Burton will appear supported by a strong company. The management has wisely placed its tickets at the popular prices of twenty-five and thirty-five cents, and will give an entire change of programme every night during the week.

Physicians' prescriptions and family recipes accurately prepared from pure and fresh drugs, cheaper than at any other reliable drug store in the county. All the medicines advertised in this paper are sold by Prentice and Evenson, the Druggists opposite the Post office.

THE WEATHER.

REPORTED BY PRENTICE AND EVENSON DRUGGISTS.

The thermometer at 6 o'clock last night stood at 13 degrees above zero; at 1 o'clock a. m. to-day at 1 degree above; at 7 o'clock a. m. at 2 degrees above, and at 1 o'clock p. m. at 17 degrees above. Cloudy.

The indications to-day are warmer, clear, or partly cloudy weather, variable winds, and stationary or falling barometer.

BRIEFLETS.

—Prayer night for church folk.

—J. M. Alden, of the Second ward, is reported as quite ill.

—Workmen commenced on Dr. Judd's new offices this morning.

—Fenner Kimball was able to walk out to-day, but is still feeble.

—Pictures begin to appear in the big photographic frame of the Guards.

—J. B. Ehle is making some internal improvements in his store. It is expected that John D., will soon open up a store of his own.

—John Buob was dangerously injured this afternoon by a cake of ice falling upon him, while he was at work in the cellar of his brewery.

—Next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, there will be a German service in the upper room of the First Methodist church. Rev. J. Berger, of Fort Atkinson, will preach.

—Four vagrants marched into the Police Court, this afternoon, under command of Marshal Hogan. They were given twenty days in jail, that is, five days each.

—Father McGinnity has returned from his trip to Denver and the west. He reports some big snow drifts, but on the whole had a happy trip, and returns in good health and vigor.

—The social held at the residence of Mr. Lowell, on High street, last evening, which is also the home of the pastor, Rev. Mr. Curtis, was an enjoyable affair, though not as largely attended as usual.

—S. Clark Burnham instituted a new Temple of Honor at Jefferson, Wednesday evening. There were twenty-two charter members, they being among the leading men of that place, and the prospects for a growing and successful organization are most excellent.

—Seth Cushman has secured a position in the office of Superintendent Caprom, of the freight department of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road, and will go to Chicago next week to begin his duties. He is an excellent penman, and good short hand reporter, and with his steady habits and known ability will make himself useful to his employers.

—Fred Smith, son of M. C. Smith, who has a clothing house at Richland Center, has purchased at Sheriff's sale the Richland County Democrat, the paper owned and edited by Otis Brand. Fred intends to keep right on in the clothing business, in which he is meeting with big success, and will also manage the paper business, and in his hands there will be no sleepiness hanging around the sheet.

—Charlie Myers has decided to go into the wholesale coal business in Chicago, and has arranged to enter into partnership with a gentleman named Berry, from Pittsburgh. Mr. Berry has had fifteen years experience in the business, and after the new enterprise has fairly been started will spend most of his time at the mines leaving his partner to take charge of the main office and yards in Chicago.

—Now Janesville has the promise of a rare treat indeed, it being no less than the appearance in this city of the wonderful tragedian, Thomas W Keene, who is now so thrilling great audiences in Chicago. Mr. Keene is to appear at the Opera house in this city on the evening of March 3d, in Richard III, and if the people of Janesville don't pack the house to its utmost capacity, it will be a sad comment on Janesville's appreciation of histrionic talent.

—Miss Pamela Meigs died at her residence on Franklin street, at 8 o'clock last evening. She was born at Linden Center, Vt., August 7th, 1821, and came to Janesville, in 1863. The deceased was a quiet and earnest christian woman and was greatly loved by all who knew her. The funeral services will be held at the First Methodist church, on Saturday, at 10 o'clock a. m. Revs. H. Sewell and G. W. Wells will conduct the services.

—Despite the statement that Vennor had postponed all further predictions on account of the weather, he comes to the front with an assertion that the rest of this month will be mild, and spring-like weather following, and high winds closing the month. All this would be highly comforting if we could only feel assured that in making this prediction he meant it to include Wisconsin, but we fear that after it is all over, he will smile sweetly and tell us he was speaking of Florida.

—The prevalence and fatality of Bright's disease of the kidneys has led Dr. Joseph F. Edwards to write a little book upon that subject, which is worded in a popular manner so that its readers will not be confined to the medical profession. It gives some plain, practical suggestions as to hygienic rules, which should be observed in order to check the progress of this disease, and by giving a history of the disease and its effects, makes a valuable little book, which ought to meet with a ready sale. It is published by Presley Blakiston, of Philadelphia, and is for sale at Sutherland & Son's in this city.

—Publishers of newspapers have for a long time felt the need of some plan for ascertaining the financial standing of advertisers, who send them orders from a distance, and the lack of such a plan has caused them often to give credit to those unworthy of it, and to refuse credit to those who were worthy. All of these annoyances can now be done away with by becoming a member of the Publishers' Commercial Union, of which Clarence W. Taylor, of this city, is the manager. The cost is trifling, and every member receives each week a report concerning advertisers, by which a publisher is protected from giving credit to bad paying advertisers, and is also informed as to who are first class patrons. The plan is an excellent one, and is being carried out very satisfactorily to every member, and every publisher should hasten to give it a hearty support.

—Janesville authorities will now feel that their demand for a dozen or fifteen complimentaries to each show, for the aldermen, is a very modest one. Oshkosh has been asking all the way from twenty to a hundred, and when they couldn't get so many, the money license was shoved up. But war has been declared. The local manager of amusements there played companies without getting any license or giving any complimentaries. He was fined $50 and has appealed, and now he says there shall be a dearth of amusements there until after the spring election, when a direct issue of "comps or no comps" will be laid before the people. In Fond du Lac only two dollars is asked for license, and no complimentaries are demanded.

—Louis Wilte, the man whom Officer Pratt arrested in Whitewater yesterday, appeared this afternoon in the Police Court, and pleaded guilty to stealing the locket and chain from Miss Wolfram's room at the American house. Justice Nolan fined him $20 and costs, and being unable to pay, he was committed to jail for thirty days. Mr. Ferguson, the second hand dealer, who bought some tools which were stolen from the carpenters' chests in Myers' new block, identifies Wilte, as the man of whom he bought them, and after serving his present sentence, he will probably have a chance to defend himself against another charge of larceny. Alex Curry, who is now under arrest for stealing these tools will have his examination next Monday afternoon.

—A movement is on foot to secure the appointment of Hon. Sanford A. Hudson, of this city, as territorial judge of the northern district of Dakota. A petition to that effect has been gladly signed by the members of the Bar here, and will be heartily endorsed by leading men of the State, and forwarded to Washington. It is to be hoped that the movement will be crowned with success, for as all know, Mr. Hudson fully merits such an honor, and would in all respects fill the position with credit to himself and to the satisfaction of all interested. It is needless to say, where Mr. Hudson is so well known as here, that he is a most conscientious and careful man, always faithful and accurate, and with a good brain, and a clean life, he is in all respects excellent material out of which to make a first class judge. There will be but one wish expressed here, and that is that the movement may result in placing him upon the bench.

A GOOD SHOWING.

Facts and Figures Concerning the Institution for the Education of the Blind.

The thirty-first annual report of the trustees of the Institution for the Education of the Blind for the year ending Sept. 30, 1881, is now being sent forth, in pamphlet form. It presents a very creditable showing for the management of that institution. As all know there has been a real motherly care taken of the pupils, excellent results reached by the educational work, and while there has been no stinting of money for accomplishing the real mission of the institution, and all its interests and its members have been well cared for, yet there has been a showing of economical management which is surely a fit example for other institutions to follow. There will be on the first of March a surplus of about $1,800, so that while the current expenses for another year are estimated at $17,800, the same amount as expended this year, there will be an appropriation needed of only $1,600. Out of a special appropriation this year of $1,200, there was expended $343.32 for completing a sidewalk to the city, and $856.68 for an ice house and refrigerator. A special appropriation of $400 was made for the purchase of a tract of land adjoining the present grounds, but the title not seeming satisfactory, the purchase was not made.

Among the items of interest gathered from the report are the following: 350 tons of coal used; 14,877 pounds of bread: 557 pounds of crackers; 3,605 pounds of butter; 17,150 pounds of fresh beef, and other articles of food in proportion.

In the estimates for next year it is recommended that a building be erected adjoining the engine house, for the storage of coal, etc., to cost about $800, and that the inside wood work of the Institution be repainted, the estimated cost being $400.

Each pupil is expected to spend at least one hour a day in some industrial occupation. Some of the younger ones are busied with bead work and some of the older girls with a variety of plain and fancy work, and in keeping in order and making their own clothing. The teaching of broom-making has been dropped, owing to the fact that hand labor cannot now compete with the factories in this line. The weaving of rag carpets is now given the leading place in the shop, and four looms are now kept busy filling orders. There are classes in cane seating also.

It is not generally known, perhaps, that the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, and the Chicago & Northwestern railway companies pass the pupils free over their road, to and from their homes, and the report contains a due acknowledgment of these favors.

The total number of names on the roll for the year is 89, of whom 48 are girls, and 41 boys.

AMUSEMENTS.

Next Saturday evening Minnie Palmer's Boarding School will be given at the Opera house. It promises to be an enjoyable entertainment in all respects, and to be especially abounding in mirth. The Boston Globe gives the following words of praise;

The piece enables Miss Palmer to present herself in a character—that of a spoiled child—in which she is a decided success. Her childishness, both in word and action, was very naturally assumed, and with that school-girl roguishness, which is very charming. In the part of Jessie Fairlove she played prank after prank upon the school master, creating such merriment during the time she was upon the stage that the audience was in a continual roar of laughter. She is the life of the piece, and the other characters served to bring her more prominently to the front. She is a bright vivacious actress of great ability, and in many of her ways resembles Lotta.

HERBERT'S CONSTELLATION.

Every evening next week Horace Herbert's comedy company will occupy the Opera house, opening Monday evening with "Rosedale, or the Rifle Ball," in Frank Cotton and J. W. Burton will appear supported by a strong company. The management has wisely placed its tickets at the popular prices of twenty-five and thirty-five cents, and will give an entire change of programme every night during the week.

THE GRAIN EXPORTS.

Statistics of the Grain Exports of the United States for 1880.

THE grain export of the United States for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1880, was, according to a report just made by the Bureau of Statistics, 281,000,000 bushels valued at $277,000,000. Wheat made up 178,079,000 bushels of this export, 29,000,000 being exported as flour and the rest as grain. This is not only the largest export of wheat ever made from this country, 32,000,000 bushels larger than the year before, but it is three and a half times the export of Russia, the greatest wheat growing country in the world, next after the United States. The average price at which this wheat was exported was $1.24 per bushel against $1.08 per bushel the year before. The corn exported, 99,191,000 bushels in the last fiscal year against 85,575,965 bushels for the year ending in 1879, was exported at an average of 54 cents a bushel instead of 47 cents in the previous year. Nearly one-half of the $77,000,000 which the country received for its export of breadstuffs in the fiscal year 1880 over and above its receipts from breadstuffs in the year before was due to this increase in price. The export in bushels was larger by a fifth; the sum received for it was a full third larger than the year before.

The wheat of the United States sent abroad in the last fiscal year was the surplus of a total crop of 449,000,000 bushels. The export of 40 per cent. of the home crop was due to a deficiency in every country in Europe and a diminished export from Russia. The home crop and the foreign demand this year are still in doubt. The yield on the Pacific Coast is known to be larger than usual, the great belt of winter wheat which stretches across the Mississippi Valley from Ohio to Nebraska is a full average crop, and the only point of uncertainty lies in the spring wheat of Wisconsin and Minnesota. These two States yielded last year 52,000,000 bushels, barely one-ninth of the entire wheat crop. Any reasonable loss in them is likely to be more than balanced by the normal growth in the crop of the country, which has doubled the wheat product of the United States in the last 10 years. There is no reason to suppose that this year's crop is smaller than last year's, there is a strong probability that it will show the usual growth, which will mean a crop of 480,000,000 bushels for 1880. At least 200,000,000 bushels of this will be for sale. It is sure to have a market, because it can be sold cheaper than the wheat of any other country can be offered. English wheat itself can not compete with American in Mark Lane, London. The price at which the surplus from this country will be sold is an open question. Last year's prices are not to be hoped for. Nor, probably, is the price of the year before. Two factors still unknown will determine the selling value—the export from Russia and the home supply in France and England.

The English wheat harvest and the Russian surplus taken together determine the demand and the price of American wheat in Europe. There are other factors in the problem, but these are the most important. The harvest in England will be decided during the coming fortnight. In spite of the recent bad weather, the general impression appears to be that the crop will be a good one. In Russia the harvest is poor. The average yield of grain is 220,000,000 to 240,000,000 bushels, of which 40,000,000 to 50,000,000 find their way to England and half as much more to other countries in prosperous years. In 1877, however, the total wheat export, including flour, was but 50,383,833 bushels, and the average from 1874 to 1877 was 49,000,000. The total grain export from Russia is from three to four times as large, reaching in 1877, for instance, 188,625,000 bushels. Returns which have just been published by the Golos, a Russian paper, from 48 provinces—there are in all 50—shows a decided deficiency amounting to fully an eighth of the total crop. The total grain production is placed at 310,000,000 bushels less than 1878, the last good year, the crop in 1879 being a failure. It is not stated how this deficiency is distributed among the cereals, but the statement is made that Russia will not be able to export the usual average of wheat. This will probably leave the situation in this respect much as it was last year, when the Russian export of wheat was less than two-thirds the average in previous years.—Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

Ben. Brust, Horseheads, Chemung Co., N. Y., writes: I have been a victim to Dyspepsia, in the worst shape it could attack an Englishman. I would sit down to enjoy a meal, of something I liked; after taking a few monthsful, I would be overcome with a feeling of fullness of the stomach, and have to stop. I constantly had the Heartburn and Headache, also a Dizziness. My mother procured me a bottle of Spring Blossom; it cured me; I can eat a square meal and enjoy it; I never felt better in my life. Prices: $1., 50c., an l trial bottles 10c. Sold by A. J. Roberts, and Croft & Shorer.

A Chapter on Babies.

BABIES come from the bosom of God, and bring with them the attribute of omnipotence. Absurd and incongruous as may appear the application of the word omnipotent to the baby—as frail and delicate as the daisy or the violet—it is true, nevertheless, that wherever there is civilization there the helpless infant is the most powerful member of the social circle. Ever since the wise men of the East sought out and bowed in humble submission to the Christ-child, mankind have acknowledged the autocracy of the baby in swaddling-clothes. The first faint cry of distress of the new-born infant summons the entire household to the rescue. Every member of the family gives in his or her allegiance and becomes the bond-slave of the new master or mistress. The baby is regarded with as much wonder and admiration as if it were the first revelation of infanthood. All its wishes are commands; all its whims have the force of Royal orders in council. If there is a rustle of clothing in the cradle there is a rush and a patter of big and little feet to its vicinity in hot haste to anticipate the possible wants of its little occupant. If the baby sleeps there is silence in the house; if the baby wakes there is a great hubbub. The baby stares, and coos, and crows, and laughs when it has learned how to laugh, and the whole family stares, and coos, and crows, and laughs in discordant concert. And each member of the pleased circle disputes with all the others the privilege of holding, and kissing, and tickling the infant phenomenon; for every baby is a phenomenon. Every baby, in its own household, is the prettiest, cunningest, brightest, and in all respects the most remarkable infant that was ever born into the world. Hence the autocracy of the baby is logical; it rules by divine right of being the prettiest, cunningest, brightest, and in all respects the most remarkable baby in the land of the living. Nor is it strange that the power of the baby is supreme in its circle, when it is considered what grand achievements are possible to its future.

The baby is a boy. His face is a trifle too red, and gets redder and redder, perhaps, as he flings his arms wildly about in the vain endeavor to seize his toes with the view of inserting them between his toothless gums. He makes abortive passes at his ears, and at last probably succeeds in grasping and giving his own little pug-nose a violent wrench, whereat he screams with infantile rage and bursts into tears. During this interesting episode of pugnacity the subjects of the baby—the family—watch him with absorbing attention, and at the denouement, after soothing his lacerated feelings, they declare confidently that he is an infant Cæsar, or an Alexander. In a word, that he is destined to military renown—to save the Republic, or march over its ruins through seas of blood (the blood of other people). Or the boy-baby succeeds in capturing his pink toes, and instead of putting them in his mouth, fingers them one by one methodically, carefully, as if counting them, and the excited auditory declare that he is destined to excel in mathematics, that he will be an astronomer—another Newton—and advance from counting toes to counting stars. Doubtless when he gets away from his mother's apron-strings, and tumbles on a stone sidewalk, or gets knocked over by his big brother, he will see a new constellation of stars. The baby-boy has a habit of running his chubby fingers through the thin locks of hair which adorn but do not cover his half-bald pate, and looks the while wisely out of his big brown or little blue eyes, and his adoring subjects detect the genius of a philosophic mind, and discern in the drooling infant a new Plato, or a Bacon, or a Descartes. There are more warriors in the cradle than on horseback, and more mathematicians, philosophers, statesmen, poets, and painters in long clothes than are dreamed of in the waking or sleeping hours of old maids and old bachelors.

Girl-babies are sweeter than boy-babies. Their faces are not so red; their fingers and toes are of a more delicate pink hue; their feet are smaller; their hands are not so chubby; and their arms are more shapely. Their noses may be a trifle more "puggy," but their eyes are soft and gentle, and possess in persuasiveness what they lack in commanding force. They are more like violets and daisies than boy-babies are. There is infinitely more character in the dimpled face of the girl-baby than in the puffy countenance of the boy-baby. As soon as the eyes of the girl-baby open in wonder upon the world they seem to reflect faint glimpses of that intuitive perceptive faculty which distinguishes the female sex. The big boy-baby "doubles" his fist in a very suggestive but disagreeable way; the girl-baby lies in the cradle with an open palm. The boy-baby scowls; the girl-baby smiles seraphically as if already familiar with the art of fascination. The boy-baby flings his arms about frantically, and kicks off his socks; the movements of the girl-baby are graceful, and if she wails her cry is protesting rather than defiant like that of the boy-baby.

Here is a girl-baby resembling the lily: grace, purity, and high purpose are even now discernible in the round, dimpled face, and she is pronounced a second Saint Cecilia. Another is the counterpart of the tuberose bud; an expression of gentleness mingled with firmness shines in the soft blue eyes, and the little court surrounding the cradle point to the infant as a Laura waiting for her Petrarch. Another has the bearing of a Queen—of a Victoria, or of a Maria Theresa of Austria. Another beams forth rays of compassion from every feature, foreshadowing a career of mercy which shall rival that of Florence Nightingale in the British army hospitals of the Crimea. Another appeals for sympathy with the forecast of a life of devotion and suffering, calling to mind the fate of the Maid of Orleans. And so on through the catalogue of the world's heroines. Then, too, the cradles of the land are doubtless now occupied by infant Elizabeth Cady Stantons, Dr. Mary Walkers, Anna Dickinsons, Susan B. Anthonys, Belva A. Lockwoods, and Matilda Joslyn Gages. It may be difficult to realize that these estimable women were ever babies, and that they gouged their beautiful little soul-lit eyes with their thumbs without intending to, and sucked their fingers, and cried aloud for the nursing-bottle, and crept on all-fours, and howled when they tried to cut their eye-teeth, and drooled all over their little bibs, as the very best-behaved babies do. But they were the prettiest, cunningest, and brightest babies of the time. And their mammas hugged and kissed them, and their papas hugged and kissed them, and so did their sisters, their cousins, and their aunts. Anna Dickinson may dispute this latter proposition; but who cares if she does? It is not insinuated that Anna has been kissed since she arrived at the years of discretion. Nor is she to be censured for declining so long as she retains a vivid recollection of the horrors of babyhood kissing. To be hauled about as every baby is and subjected to an infinitude of kisses is the saddest and cruelest experience of infantile life. Babies ought to be protected from promiscuous and indiscriminate kissing by statute; and pretty girls, too, for that matter. But would pretty girls inform against their persecutors and avail themselves of the privilege of the law? But there are terrible presages in the realm of babyhood. There are babies tumbling and tossing restlessly in their cradles in whose eyes portents of evil are foreshadowed; babies whose innocent, expressionless features, rosy and dimpled, are destined to be distorted with unbridled passion; whose fists will be doubled with brutal intent; whose now nerveless hands will become iron and grasp the knife or the pistol with murderous purpose; whose hearts will be convulsed with ungovernable rage; and whose souls, O horror of horrors! will be stained with the blood of their fellow-creatures! And there are babies doomed to pinching poverty which degrades the body and dwarfs the soul; babies destined to be reared in the noxious atmosphere of vice and crime—all the healthy currents of their lives poisoned by a deadly moral malaria. What has been will again be. Not only are the philosophers, statesmen, poets, orators, and humanitarians of the future now sleeping unconsciously in the cradle, or crowing with infantile delight in the arms of fond mothers, but the great and little criminals, the murderers, and the thieves, the traitors and the robbers, the wretched little street waifs who will subsist by petty larceny and the colossal plunderers who will live off the fruits of giant conspiracies and fraud—all these vices of the future are concealed beneath the mask of baby faces.

The cradle is a veritable Pandora's box, whence emanate not only all the ills and mischief which afflict mankind, but all the joys and blessings which make life endurable. The chiefest joy is the spectacle of the mother bending over the sleeping or waking infant. Her face is irradiated with the glow of hope, that inestimable benefaction to mankind found at the bottom of Jove's casket of secret wonders presented to Pandora. Buoyed by this supreme stay of the soul—hope—the mother sees in the baby's face only visions of surpassing peace, unstained virtue, happy content, or world-wide renown.—Chicago Tribune.

THE New York Graphic takes up this line of discussion: "Man's apparel, as well as woman's, is open to improvement. His regular everyday attire is not a free, unfettered working dress. It is too stiff. There is too much starch and pasteboard for comfort or free play of limb. Any dress impeding the working of any part of the body is directly unhealthful. The proof that man's dress is to some extent a shackle is the fact and custom that if there's anything to do demanding muscular exercise, he must pull off not only his coat but his collar, cravat and sometimes shirt. Our pedestrians, our base ball players, our polo players, our yachtsmen on duty, all in order to do their best are obliged to strip themselves of portions of their conventional attire. If this be necessary for the fullest muscular exertion of a few hours, why is it not equally necessary for any hour? How much weakness and disease may be indirectly developed by clogs to physical exertion, by undue pressure and bandaging, by cramped feet and necks, by everything that fetters motion and respiration?"

REV., HENRY WARD BEECHER some time since received a letter from a young man, who recommended himself very highly as being honest, and closed with the request, "Get me an easy situation, that honesty may be rewarded." To which Mr. Beecher replied: "Don't be an editor, if you would be 'easy.' Do not try the law. Avoid school keeping. Keep out of the pulpit. Let alone all ships, stores, shops, and merchandise. Abhor politics. Keep away from lawyers. Don't practice medicine. Be not a farmer nor a mechanic; neither a soldier nor a sailor. Don't study. Don't think. Don't work. None of them are easy. O, my honest friend, you are in a very hard world! I know of but one real 'easy' place in it. That is the grave."

How's the Baby.

"HOW'S THE BABY?" "His croup is better this morning, thank you, we gave him some Thomas' Eclectric Oil as you advised, doctor, and shall give him some more in an hour or so." Next day the doctor pronounced the youngster cured.

BRIEFLETS.

—Prayer night for church folk.

—J. M. Alden, of the Second ward, is reported as quite ill.

—Workmen commenced on Dr. Judd's new offices this morning.

—Fenner Kimball was able to walk out to-day, but is still feeble.

—Pictures begin to appear in the big photographic frame of the Guards.

—J. B. Ehle is making some internal improvements in his store. It is expected that John D., will soon open up a store of his own.

—John Baob was dangerously injured this afternoon by a cake of ice falling upon him, while he was at work in the cellar of his brewery.

—Next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, there will be a German service in the upper room of the First Methodist church. Rev. J. Berger, of Fort Atkinson, will preach.

—Four vagrants marched into the Police Court, this afternoon, under command of Marshal Hogan. They were given twenty days in jail, that is, five days each.

—Father McGinnity has returned from his trip to Denver and the west. He reports some big snow drifts, but on the whole had a happy trip, and returns in good health and vigor.

—The social held at the residence of Mr. Lowell, on High street, last evening, which is also the home of the pastor, Rev. Mr. Curtis, was an enjoyable affair, though not as largely attended as usual.

—S. Clark Burnham instituted a new Temple of Honor at Jefferson, Wednesday evening. There were twenty-two charter members, they being among the leading men of that place, and the prospects for a growing and successful organization are most excellent.

—Seth Cushman has secured a position in the office of Superintendent Capron, of the freight department of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road, and will go to Chicago next week to begin his duties. He is an excellent penman, and good short hand reporter, and with his steady habits and known ability will make himself useful to his employers.

—Fred Smith, son of M. C. Smith, who has a clothing house at Richland Center, has purchased at Sheriff's sale the Richland County Democrat, the paper owned and edited by Otis Brand. Fred intends to keep right on in the clothing business, in which he is meeting with big success, and will also manage the paper business, and in his hands there will be no sleepiness hanging around the sheet.

—Charlie Myers has decided to go into the wholesale coal business in Chicago, and has arranged to enter into partnership with a gentleman named Berry, from Pittsburgh. Mr. Berry has had fifteen years experience in the business, and after the new enterprise has fairly been started will spend most of his time at the mines leaving his partner to take charge of the main office and yards in Chicago.

—Now Janesville has the promise of a rare treat indeed, it being no less than the appearance in this city of the wonderful tragedian, Thomas W Keene, who is now so thrilling great audiences in Chicago. Mr. Keene is to appear at the Opera house in this city on the evening of March 3d, in Richard III, and if the people of Janesville don't pack the house to its utmost capacity, it will be a sad comment on Janesville's appreciation of histrionic talent.

—Miss Pamela Meigs died at her residence on Franklin street, at 8 o'clock last evening. She was born at Linden Center, Vt., August 7th, 1821, and came to Janesville, in 1863. The deceased was a quiet and earnest christian woman and was greatly loved by all who knew her. The funeral services will be held at the First Methodist church, on Saturday, at 10 o'clock a. m. Revs. H. Sewell and G. W. Wells will conduct the services.

—Despite the statement that Vennor had postponed all further predictions on account of the weather, he comes to the front with an assertion that the rest of this month will be mild, and spring-like weather following, and high winds closing the month. All this would be highly comforting if we could only feel assured that in making this prediction he meant it to include Wisconsin, but we fear that after it is all over, he will smile sweetly and tell us he was speaking of Florida.

—The prevalence and fatality of Bright's disease of the kidneys has led Dr. Joseph F. Edwards to write a little book upon that subject, which is worded in a popular manner so that its readers will not be confined to the medical profession. It gives some plain, practical suggestions as to hygienic rules, which should be observed in order to check the progress of this disease, and by giving a history of the disease and its effects, makes a valuable little book, which ought to meet with a ready sale. It is published by Presley Blakiston, of Philadelphia, and is for sale at Sutherland & Son's in this city.

—Publishers of newspapers have for a long time felt the need of some plan for ascertaining the financial standing of advertisers, who send them orders from a distance, and the lack of such a plan has caused them often to give credit to those unworthy of it, and to refuse credit to those who were worthy. All of these annoyances can now be done away with by becoming a member of the Publishers' Commercial Union, of which Clarence W. Taylor, of this city, is the manager. The cost is trifling, and every member receives each week a report concerning advertisers, by which a publisher is protected from giving credit to bad paying advertisers, and is also informed as to who are first class patrons. The plan is an excellent one, and is being carried out very satisfactorily to every member, and every publisher should hasten to give it a hearty support.

—Janesville authorities will now feel that their demand for a dozen or fifteen complimentaries to each show, for the aldermen, is a very modest one. Oshkosh has been asking all the way from twenty to a hundred, and when they couldn't get so many, the money license was shoved up. But war has been declared. The local manager of amusements there played companies without getting any license or giving any complimentaries. He was fined $50 and has appealed, and now he says there shall be a dearth of amusements there until after the spring election, when a direct issue of "comps or no comps" will be laid before the people. In Fond du Lac only two dollars is asked for license, and no complimentaries are demanded.

—Louis Wilte, the man whom Officer Pratt arrested in Whitewater yesterday, appeared this afternoon in the Police Court, and pleaded guilty to stealing the locket and chain from Miss Wolfram's room at the American house. Justice Nolan fined him $20 and costs, and being unable to pay, he was committed to jail for thirty days. Mr. Ferguson, the second hand dealer, who bought some tools which were stolen from the carpenters' chests in Myers' new block, identifies Wilte, as the man of whom he bought them, and after serving his present sentence, he will probably have a chance to defend himself against another charge of larceny. Alex Carry, who is now under arrest for stealing these tools will have his examination next Monday afternoon.

—A movement is on foot to secure the appointment of Hon. Sanford A. Hudson, of this city, as territorial judge of the northern district of Dakota. A petition to that effect has been gladly signed by the members of the Bar here, and will be heartily endorsed by leading men of the State, and forwarded to Washington. It is to be hoped that the movement will be crowned with success, for as all know, Mr. Hudson fully merits such an honor, and would in all respects fill the position with credit to himself and to the satisfaction of all interested. It is needless to say, where Mr. Hudson is so well known as here, that he is a most conscientious and careful man, always faithful and accurate, and with a good brain, and a clean life, he is in all respects excellent material out of which to make a first class judge. There will be but one wish expressed here, and that is that the movement may result in placing him upon the bench.

A GOOD SHOWING.

Facts and Figures Concerning the Institution for the Education of the Blind.

The thirty-first annual report of the trustees of the Institution for the Education of the Blind for the year ending Sept. 30, 1881, is now being sent forth, in pamphlet form. It presents a very creditable showing for the management of that institution. As all know there has been a real motherly care taken of the pupils, excellent results reached by the educational work, and while there has been no stinting of money for accomplishing the real mission of the institution, and all its interests and its members have been well cared for, yet there has been a showing of economical management which is surely a fit example for other institutions to follow. There will be on the first of March a surplus of about $1,800, so that while the current expenses for another year are estimated at $17,800, the same amount as expended this year, there will be an appropriation needed of only $1,600. Out of a special appropriation this year of $1,200, there was expended $343.32 for completing a sidewalk to the city, and $856.68 for an ice house and refrigerator. A special appropriation of $400 was made for the purchase of a tract of land adjoining the present grounds, but the title not seeming satisfactory, the purchase was not made.

Among the items of interest gathered from the report are the following: 350 tons of coal used; 14,877 pounds of bread: 557 pounds of crackers; 3,605 pounds of butter; 17,150 pounds of fresh beef, and other articles of food in proportion.

In the estimates for next year it is recommended that a building be erected adjoining the engine house, for the storage of coal, etc., to cost about $800, and that the inside wood work of the Institution be repainted, the estimated cost being $400.

Each pupil is expected to spend at least one hour a day in some industrial occupation. Some of the younger ones are busied with bead work and some of the older girls with a variety of plain and fancy work, and in keeping in order and making their own clothing. The teaching of broom-making has been dropped, owing to the fact that hand labor cannot now compete with the factories in this line. The weaving of rag carpets is now given the leading place in the shop, and four looms are now kept busy filling orders. There are classes in cane seating also.

It is not generally known, perhaps, that the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, and the Chicago & Northwestern railway companies pass the pupils free over their road, to and from their homes, and the report contains a due acknowledgment of these favors.

The total number of names on the roll for the year is 89, of whom 48 are girls, and 41 boys.

AMUSEMENTS.

Next Saturday evening Minnie Palmer's Boarding School will be given at the Opera house. It promises to be an enjoyable entertainment in all respects, and to be especially abounding in mirth. The Boston Globe gives the following words of praise;

The piece enables Miss Palmer to present herself in a character—that of a spoiled child—in which she is a decided success. Her childishness, both in word and action, was very naturally assumed, and with that school-girl roguishness, which is very charming. In the part of Jessie Fairlove she played prank after prank upon the school master, creating such merriment during the time she was upon the stage that the audience was in a continual roar of laughter. She is the life of the piece, and the other characters served to bring her more prominently to the front. She is a bright vivacious actress of great ability, and in many of her ways resembles Lotta.

HERBERT'S CONSTELLATION.

Every evening next week Horace Herbert's comedy company will occupy the Opera house, opening Monday evening with "Rosedale, or the Rifle Ball," in Frank Cotton and J. W. Burton will appear supported by a strong company. The management has wisely placed its tickets at the popular prices of twenty-five and thirty-five cents, and will give an entire change of programme every night during the week.
